Fire Chief Robert T. Brindle and Ald. Frank Mulliner stand by while Ald. A. Kent blows smoke ring before the anti-smoke nuisance meeting today.

Inspector, Engineer, Mill Man Confer

Talking the smoke problem over are, left, A. J. Saunders, consulting engineer; smoke inspector John McGregor and Thomas Wellburn of Moore-Whittington Lumber Co. Ltd.

City Crackdown If Smoke Nuisance Not Controlled

Warning of a city-wide crackdown on mill owners with a tighter by-law to help do the job, if smoke and cinder nuisance is not kept to an "absolute minimum" was issued by the city fire wardens committee today.

Meeting under chairmanship of Ald. Frank Mulliner, the committee and 15 mill, industrial and laundry representatives heard Smoke Inspector John McGregor of Vancouver recommend:

- 1—Precipitators;
- 2—Additions to boiler capacity to allow for slower burning of mill refuse, crux of the problem.

This afternoon Ald. Mulliner with Fire Chief Robert T. Brindle and Inspector McGregor

EVEN CITY CONTRIBUTES TO PROBLEM

The city itself is not without blame when it comes to smoke nuisance. Fire Chief Robert T. Brindle told a joint meeting on the smoke problem today.

"We have had four fires started from the city's garbage incinerator at the wharf," he said.

He blamed it on over-taxing of the incinerators and lack of a smoke stack screen. He said the matter had been brought to council attention. Regarding cinder nuisance near the mills, he stated he had seen attics covered with an inch to an inch and a half of cinders.

JOAN FONTAINE GLAD New Romance For Aly?

LONDON (UP)—Joan Fontaine said today she was "glad" Prince Aly Khan has shown some interest in her but their dates had not advanced beyond the friendship stage.

"I have known him for three or four years," the glamorous film queen explained coyly to newsmen.

"I am glad he finds me a pleasant companion. That's all there is to it."

Paris nightclubbers had no doubt the wealthy prince, husband of Rita Hayworth, found Joan "pleasant." They watched him dance cheek-to-cheek with her last Saturday.

Reports of a romantic attachment leaped forward in the wee hours yesterday when Aly again was seen dancing with Joan.

The new duo was the talk of a gala champagne party given by wealthy New Yorker Norman Winston.

Aly and Joan were seen dancing and absorbed in an intense conversation.

PLAN AWARD OF PRIZES

Presentation of the majority of the awards of Victoria College announced today will be made at the annual assembly scheduled at the College Auditorium on Friday, Oct. 19.

Some of the scholarships made available by service clubs will be presented the winners at special meetings of the clubs.

(For scholarship winners see pages 6 and 7.)

War Criminals Cry Innocence From Gallows

LANDSBERG (UP)—Seven black-suited Nazi mass murderers of more than 200,000 persons plunged to their deaths at the end of a rope today minutes after each cried out his innocence from the scaffold steps.

One by one they stumbled up the steps between two U.S. soldiers and were hanged separately from midnight until 2:30 a.m. Each one delivered a final defiant statement with a noose around his neck before the hangman released the trap.

They were nailed into their coffins immediately after each execution.

LAST TO DIE

The seven men were the last German war criminals marked for execution by U.S. authorities. A total of 282 have been hanged since the first Nuremberg tribunal trials five years ago.

ANOTHER INFAMOUS INMATE

Ironically, the seven met their deaths in the same stone-walled prison where a former inmate named Adolf Hitler wrote his ill-fated plan of German conquest entitled "Mein Kampf."

Until the Supreme Court rejected their final appeal late yesterday, the men had expected another stay of execution. Three times before they had been saved at the last minute.

Lost Trapper Sought

EDMONTON (CP)—The R.C.A.F., R.C.M.P. and civilian volunteers are searching for a missing trapper in the Peerless Lake district, 190 miles north of Edmonton. The 40-year-old trapper, Ronald Babcock, disappeared in the bush after leaving his cabin a week ago.

Allies Capture Strategic Hill Near Triangle

Enemy Resistance Slowing Advance

TOKYO (AP)—Allied infantrymen swept the Reds off a Korean mountain top four miles from Chorwon today, breaching outer defenses of the Communists' "iron triangle."

Capture of Mount Kodae represented a gain of about a mile—the longest reported Thursday.

The United Nations advance ground to a halt in the mountainous eastern half of the 125-mile front in the face of North Koreans who wouldn't give up.

The U.N. advance in the west was paced by infantrymen storming up Mount Kodae. They pushed the Chinese back to a point 40 miles from the deepest penetration of their abortive spring offensive.

DOMINATING HILL

Atop the 2,700-foot hill, U.N. forces dominate entranceways to the Chorwon-Pyongyang triangle. On their left is the Seoul-Chorwon highway. On their right is the opening of Pyongyang valley, which splits the triangle.

Chorwon itself lies in front. Only one low hill stands between the allies and the city.

But front dispatches said the Reds have quit retreating.

Troops capturing Kodae, and their supporting forces, gained 1,000 to 2,000 yards, through artillery and mortar fire. Flanking units spreading west across the Imjin River near Yonchon ran into bitter fights.

U.N. forces on the east flank, spearheading toward the centre of the iron triangle, advanced 2,000 yards. Censorships obscured their position.

INCHING FORWARD

Elsewhere, where the allies gained at all, it was in inching advance paced by probing tank forces.

Front-line commanders said the Communists were desperate to save huge stores scattered in the Chorwon-Kumhwa-Pyongyang triangle.

Vast Red Army Said Forming

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—The China Union Press reported today that large-scale mobilization was under way in Communist China under a secret agreement with Russia.

The Nationalist agency said Red China would provide an army of 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 men for a third World War and Russia would equip them.

China Union Press also reported Chou En-Lai, Red China's premier and foreign minister, is seriously ill in Peking.

Canadian Tars In Brush With Enemy

ON BOARD H.M.C.S. NOOTKA (CP)—With a one-two punch, this Canadian destroyer recently killed several of them and then opened up with its big guns to blast Communist transportation and defense outposts in North Korea.

The action was launched in the afternoon behind a protecting screen of fog.

An 18-man armed party attempted to slip in on the enemy in two cutters. Suddenly, the fog lifted and cries of sentries brought a hail of automatic fire from enemy posts.

The Canadians returned fire, killed three of the enemy and kept others pinned close to the ground. Lieut. A. H. M. Slater of Victoria was in charge of the landing party.

U.S. TO DENOUNCE TRADE AGREEMENT WITH RUSSIA

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is preparing to denounce its trade agreements with Russia and five Communist satellite countries.

President Truman is expected to announce within a few days the first moves toward carrying out terms of the new Trade Act Congress approved Tuesday.

Informed officials said yesterday the State Department is laying a groundwork for revoking the 1937 Russian-American commercial agreement.

Similar trade pacts with Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, and Bulgaria, also are due to be revoked.

51 DEAD, 47 HURT IN TRAIN DISASTER

Crashes Gas Truck On Suburban Run Outside Rio De Janeiro; Death Toll May Run To 100

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A crowded commuter train hit a stalled gasoline truck near here today and a spokesman for the railroad said 51 persons were burned to death in flaming gasoline. Forty-seven other persons were hurt.

The first three cars of the train, jammed with commuters, were destroyed in the ensuing fire.

The passenger train was on the way to Rio from the town of Belem, in the nearby state of Rio de Janeiro. The accident occurred at Nova Guassu, just outside the Rio city limits.

A railway spokesman said first reports from the scene gave a toll of at least 80 dead, but "possibly there are about 100."

Fire caused all the deaths. The engine hit the stalled truck on the tracks and continued forward with gasoline from the truck landing on the first passenger car. The engine slammed on his brakes and sparks from the wheels apparently set off a big explosion and fire.

Number Killed As Trains Hit

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Two Louisville and Nashville passenger trains crashed near here today and the railroad said an undetermined number of persons were killed.

The trains collided at nearby Palmyra, about 40 miles northwest of Nashville.

"Some are dead and some are hurt," the ticket agent here said. "But this soon we can't tell how bad it will be."

Fanatical Douks In Jail In 3-Week Hunger Strike

OTTAWA (CP)—About 70 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors are on a hunger strike at the Westminister federal prison in British Columbia. Maj. Gen. R. B. Gibson, federal penitentiaries commissioner, said in an interview today.

He said the strike has been going on for about three weeks. No steps have been taken by guards to try to break it by force.

However, in the case of one inmate, "forced feeding" did take place on doctor's orders, Gen. Gibson said.

Gen. Gibson did not make clear how the "forced feeding" was being done.

The Vancouver Sun said Wednesday that "authorities believe the hunger strike and other demonstrations by the prisoners are closely linked with growing restlessness among unorthodox Doukhobors in the Kootenays."

The Vancouver Sun said Wednesday that guards were forcibly feeding some Sons of Freedom and that in at least one instance guards had held a prisoner down and forced a tube into his mouth.

Gen. Gibson said "nothing is being done to aggravate the situation." Food is being placed before the imprisoned Doukhobors.

The prisoners are those remaining of some 400 arrested last year for arson and nude parading following an outbreak of violence in the Kootenays by the fanatical sect.

"Those arrested for parading in the nude have been let out," Gen. Gibson said. "Those remaining are really the core of the group."

Suspended As Going AWOL Thought Bound For Russia

LONDON (AP)—The foreign office reported tonight that two diplomats who know vital state secrets and who quit Britain several days ago cabled their families from Paris within the last 24 hours.

There was no hint as to what the cablegrams said. Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express suggests they may be making for Russia "to serve their idealistic purposes."

Some officials seemed skeptical of this idea. Secret service men, diplomatic missions and police throughout western Europe were mobilized to search. Both officials were suspended for being absent without leave. They disappeared 13 days ago.

The two are Donald MacLean, head of the American department of the foreign office, and Guy Burgess, a second secretary at the British embassy in Washington. They are known to have gone to France a few days ago.

(In Paris a French security official said today the two "are known to be in Paris and our agents are after them.")

(Paris newspapers said police had instructions to watch the Russian embassy here and check the identity of all callers.)

(The evening newspaper France Soir headlined the story "a new Pontecorvo affair—two British officials have chosen the Iron Curtain.")

Burgess, 40, recently arrived on leave in Britain after serving in Washington for nearly a year. He joined the foreign service after the war, during which he had worked in various government departments.

MacLean, 38, suffered a breakdown a year ago but was thought to be fully recovered. His foreign service postings included Paris, 1938; London, 1940; Washington, 1941; Cairo, 1948. He became head of the American department at the Foreign Office last year. He is married and has two children.

Scotland Yard and the secret service were informed by the foreign office when the men vanished. They have been suspended from the foreign service for being "absent without leave."

The head of the foreign office news department, William Ridsdale, personally answered reporters' questions for about half an hour today.

He was asked whether the decision to suspend them with effect from June 1 indicated that in the view of the foreign office the two men had "disappeared voluntarily."

Ridsdale said: "We know nothing to the contrary."

MacLean's wife had not disappeared, he told another questioner.

Asked whether the foreign office had any information to suggest the two men were traveling to Russia, Ridsdale said: "We have no information at all about their whereabouts."

He said it could be assumed the two men left England together and were proceeding to France but their arrival in France had not been confirmed.

Ridsdale said he supposed they would be traveling on diplomatic passports.

Not Concerned Over Activity On Iran Border

Grady Minimizes Russ Manoeuvres

TEHRAN (AP)—United States Ambassador Henry F. Grady said today intelligence reports indicated increased Russian military activity along Iran's northern frontier. But he added he saw "nothing particularly significant" in the reports.

Authoritative government officials confirmed published reports that unusually large Russian military concentrations had been seen on the northern frontier, and that Soviet battle exercises are continuing in that area.

Grady, at a press conference, said U.S. intelligence knows that there has been some increase in Russian defensive fortifications, but nothing further.

The border activity reports come in the midst of tension between Britain and Iran over the nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

SEEN AS COUNTER-MOVES

Iranian intelligence sources consider the Soviet activity along the border as counter-moves to British naval movements in the Persian Gulf and the dispatch of parachute troops to Cyprus—within easy dropping distance of the southern oilfields.

Truck loads of Soviet soldiers are driving along the Soviet side of the border with loud speakers blaring Russian songs and propaganda, these informants said.

Meanwhile, the Iranian government announced it has placed a $5,000,000 fund at the disposal of its three-man board of directors set up to operate the holdings of the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, centre of the dispute.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

'WHO-DUN-IT' CENTENARY

LONDON.—Happening to be in the vicinity of Baker Street I could not resist the temptation to visit Abbey House, where Sherlock Holmes, the great criminologist of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's famous series of "whodunits," has come to life again just about 100 years after his fictitious birth. Abbey House is supposedly the 221 B Baker Street from which Holmes conducted his investigations into the sordid and sinister crimes committed within the covers of the famous author's detective books. And in its old-fashioned rooms has been recreated the setting and the atmosphere which Sherlock Holmes fans all over the world associate with the master criminologist.

LEGEND BECOMES REAL

THERE is all the clutter associated with the mid-Victorian era in which Holmes flourished and deduced. The mirrored mantelpiece with its ornate brass clock, its pipe-rack and knickknacks, its leather-seated fender, the coal scuttle holding his pipe and cigar box. On the walls are hung a rack holding hunting-crops, and above them a collection of sinister-looking daggers and knives; a snakeskin allegedly representing "The Speckled Band," a collection of retorts and test-tubes.

A life-like effigy of Holmes himself, wearing the famous dressing gown, sits near a small table equally cluttered up with a desk-box, a microscope, his violin, and his hypodermic at the ready, among other trivia.

GAS MARKS

AGAINST another wall I noticed the Persian slipper in which the deductive genius kept some of his tobacco. On the ceiling are the blackened marks caused by the gas which he burned—as symbolic of the gas-light era as the midnight oil of another day.

So faithfully has the spirit of the Conan Doyle "whodunits" and their master mind been recreated that on the little baubel house of Holmes, with its lighted oil lamp, are unfinished pieces of period toast, well buttered—an anachronism in the Britain of today!—and half-empty cups of tea.

DR. WATSON, TOO

ANYONE familiar with the Sherlock Holmes legend knows that where he was, his medical shadow, Dr. Watson, would be found, too. So it was elementary that, hanging on the door besides the sleuth's famous Inverness cape and deer-stalker hat, is to be seen the doctor's topcoat and shiny top-hat, with his stethoscope hanging over it. Were it not for that, one might have deduced that his absence from the scene was attributable to his being engaged elsewhere in examining panel patients under today's National Health scheme.

But, apart from the exhibition itself, I was even more intrigued at the imaginative impulse which made it possible. Not only is it a delightful reflection of the British love of fantasy, but it reflects an extraordinary and unusual deviation from the more usual prosaic and unimaginative attitude of government. For the Borough Council of Marylebone spent £3,500 ($10,000) on recreating Sherlock Holmes as its contribution to the Festival of Britain.

RUSSIAN REALISM

A PROPOS of that, Mr. Denis Conan Doyle, son of the late author, who was present at the formal opening of the exhibition, related an amusing example of Soviet realism. He said that during the last war, 5,000,000 Russians were forced to read Sherlock Holmes stories because the Red Army authorities thought this would sharpen their reasoning faculties.

So, despite the Soviet Minister of Propaganda's objection that Sherlock was a miserable tool of the capitalists and a protector of private property, vast quantities of the books were printed and distributed. But as, so far, not a rouble of the proceeds from this gigantic edition had been seen in Britain, it looks to me as if there might be a case for Holmes himself to look into!

Only Canada Aids 'Blockading' Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House of Representatives sub-committee said Wednesday Canada is the only country co-operating fully in the U.S. effort to stop the flow of strategic war materials to iron curtain countries.

"No other nation except Canada has cut off exports to Communist China completely, and no other nation except Canada has accepted completely the lists of strategic commodities which the United States enforces with respect to its own exports," said the Foreign Affairs sub-committee.

U.S. Told H-Bomb Nears Realization

A.E.C. Chief Says Nation Could Engage Reds In Atom War And Win

NEW YORK (UP)—Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission reported for the first time publicly today the hydrogen "super bomb" is getting closer to realization.

Dean also stated for the first time by any commission official—that the U.S. is developing "atomic warheads for artillery and guided missiles."

In an unusually frank report on atomic progress, the commission chief told the New York State Chamber of Commerce the U.S. is in a position to fight an atomic war with Russia and "win it."

He also disclosed that:

1. Development and improvement of weapons is proceeding at so rapid a pace that it will be necessary to conduct new atomic tests "at more frequent intervals" henceforth. Meanwhile, the commission is practically doubling its $2,500,000,000 production plant.

2. Discovery and exploitation of new uranium sources have made the atomic war material picture "encouraging" and will keep it that way "for many years to come."

3. The commission is "concentrating" on development of atomic engines for world-girdling submarines and airplanes, and Dean is "sure" that "we are going to have both." Such engines—which the commission is trying to get "at the earliest possible date"—will reduce "almost to the vanishing point the dependence of naval vessels and military aircraft upon bases of fuel supply."

4. Some time this year the commission will put in operation at Arco, Ida., the world's first atomic "breeder," a 100 kilowatt plant which in addition to producing power will manufacture more atomic fuel than it consumes.

New Men Unload Ships At Auckland

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP)—The government withdrew the last troops from the Auckland docks today and the new Cargo Workers' Union took over the handling of all ships.

This represented an additional victory for Prime Minister Sidney G. Holland's anti-Socialist government in its fight against the Waterside Workers' Union, which called a country-wide strike four months ago.

There are approximately 1,300 members in the Cargo Workers' Union here. The Waterside Workers' Union went out on strike after several members were fired for refusing to accept overtime pay. The members were protesting against wage boosts offered by the employers.

Victorian's Son Sends Back Korean Pamphlet

An example of the crude type of propaganda being used on the United Nations forces in Korea by the Chinese Communists is shown by a pamphlet received in Victoria this week by Maj. H. C. Holmes.

The pamphlet was picked up just north of the 38th parallel by his son, Capt. Desmond Holmes, who has been in Korea for over a year with the Royal Engineers. It was signed by the "Korean People's Army" and the "Chinese People's Volunteer Forces."

On one side the pamphlet is "Important Message—Turn over."

It is addressed to "Officers and Men of the American Army" and reads:

"At the present time many of your units have been annihilated by us and you yourselves are encircled or being routed by our powerful forces. It is surely a pity that you came to Korea to fight for the Bankers of Wall Street, but further resistance is both futile and unwise. It can mean nothing but useless sacrifice."

"We welcome you to put down your arms and come over to our lines. There is no other way to avoid a horrible end for yourselves."

Capt. Holmes' wife and family live at Bideford, Devon, Eng.

Deny Report Recruiting Here Lowest In Canada

A report that recruiting in Victoria for two companies of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) to form part of Canada's 27th brigade group for European service is the lowest in Canada was denied today by army recruiting officials here. Enlistment in Victoria is slow but steady, and compares favorably to other centres in Canada, recruiting officers said. Enlistment in B.C. is also as high as any other province, they added. Meanwhile, the army in Ottawa announced that enlistment for the Western Command totaled 952.

Enlistment in other areas were: Eastern Command, 1,954; Quebec Command, 750; Central Command, 2,384; Prairie Command, 494.

Recruiting figures as of Wednesday afternoon showed 11,815 applications, 3,139 rejections and 2,142 being processed. A total of 6,534 men had already enlisted in the brigade.

Complain Red U.N. Dues Low

OTTAWA (CP)—Russia was criticized Wednesday by members of the Commons external affairs committee for failure to pay a fair share of the costs of the United Nations.

Gordon Graydon (P.C., Ont.) said the Soviet was "getting away with murder" when the U.N. allowed her, with a population of 180,000,000, to pay a contribution of only 6.98 per cent of total U.N. costs. Canada's contribution is 3.2 per cent—$1,466,100.

Retailers To Air Views On N.Y. Price War

NEW YORK (AP)—A New York state inquiry into the city's price-cutting war will give both mammoth merchant and neighborhood retailer a chance to air their views during an uneasy lull in the fair-trade fracas. Probing the price battle will be the joint legislative committee on unfair trade practices, headed by Irwin Steingut, Democratic minority leader of the state assembly.

No one has been ordered to appear, but the committee expected a crowd of retailers as eager to talk as their customers have been to snap up bargains the last eight days.

Last night the head of Gimbel's, Bernard Gimbel, accused Macy's of starting the whole thing as "an advertising stunt."

Asks Action On Shooting Of GI

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States demanded today that Russia punish two Soviet soldiers who shot and killed U.S. Army Cpl. Paul J. Gressens in Vienna May 4.

A formal U.S. note to Russia also asked that damages be paid Gressens' family.

The note charged that the shooting resulted from "deliberate intent or through negligence" and that the Soviet High Commissioner in Austria "has condoned this crime."

Gressens, who lived in Rochester, N.Y., was on duty as a military policeman in the international district of Vienna May 4 and helped challenge two Soviet soldiers who, the United States said, were behaving suspiciously. "The latter opened fire without provocation," the U.S. note said, and recalled that Russian authorities in Austria had turned down an American request for a joint U.S.-Soviet investigation of the incident.

Yalta Not Blamed For Chiang Defeat

Acheson Denies Charge; Senator Says He's More Confused Than Ever

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson contended today there was no connection between the Far Eastern concessions made to Russia at Yalta and the defeat of the Chinese Nationalists by the Communists.

Acheson said that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, leader of the Nationalists, welcomed the agreements, which gave Russia entry into Manchuria through concessions at Port Arthur and Dairen.

It was Acheson's sixth day of testimony at hearings by the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Senator Brien McMahon (Dem., Conn.), a strong administration supporter, raised the question of whether the Yalta agreements weakened Chiang's forces. He said his purpose was to dispel any notion that the concessions to Russia "made it possible for the Chinese Communists to have a victory in China."

The Yalta agreement was an understanding reached by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill of Britain and Premier Stalin of Russia in February, 1945.

Russia agreed to come into the war against Japan three months after the defeat of Germany and, in return, was given certain Far Eastern concessions.

As Acheson came back to the witness chair, Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep., Iowa) told reporters he would seek a "frank and clear" statement from the cabinet officer of United Nations political objectives in Korea.

"After listening to the secretary at great length, I am more confused than ever as to just what our goal is," Hickenlooper said. "And I am sure I am not alone in that confusion."

80 Ships Idle As All London Checkers Out

LONDON (Reuters)—The total of idle ships at London docks jumped to 80 today as an unofficial strike of checkers spread to include the entire force of more than 1,500 men.

Thousands of tons of meat, sugar and fruit awaited unloading because dockers and stevedores cannot work without checkers to supervise them.

The strike started at London's "royal group" of docks Monday, when a man was recruited who did not belong to the local branch of the union.

Nearly 7,000 stevedores are idle as a result of the checkers' walkout.

Brooklyn (Fort Hamilton)—Tommy Bazzano, 148, Meriden, Conn., knocked out Frankie Palermo, 144½, Mount Vernon, N.Y., 4.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

THE OTHER DAY my hostess was telling me about a wonderful new machine she was planning to buy. It does everything. Among other things, it not only knocks the daylights out of your rugs but shampoos them as well. I said that was all very well, but how did she know it didn't give the rugs a shave and a haircut while it was at it? She said "Bless you for those words, Dave, I don't think I'll buy it after all. You're quite a salesman." I said no, I was an anti-salesman. Which is partly true, I suppose, though perhaps the art of counter-persuasion is still persuasion, and therefore salesmanship.

THE OPPRESSED CLASSES
I SEE that the Holland-America Line's new ship Hyndam (which is completely air-conditioned) will carry 854 tourist passengers and only 32 first-class passengers. The tourist-boys will have almost the run of the ship, including all the main sports and promenade decks and the main salons. They will have five decks to themselves, while the first-class boys (being only three dozen or so) will be herded into one spot on one deck.

Well, that's quite an idea. The revolution has arrived. But I do think that the first-class boys should be asked to pay less than the tourist boys under these novel conditions, or air-conditions. As it is, they are asked to pay $89 extra for the privilege of deeding away the usual first-class rights. I am not sticking up for first-class travel. At sea, I think the tourists have more fun as well as saving money. For one thing, as somebody said, they melt at a lower temperature.

All the same I hope the Holland-America Line makes it up to the first-class in some other way. And I do hope that in an air-conditioned ship you are allowed to open your cabin porthole (or is it scuttle?) in fair weather. You're not allowed to do that in a completely air-conditioned house, by golly.

ERSATZ COOKERY
I HAVE been told (I think falsely) that men make better cooks than women because they follow recipes without changing them. Myself, I believe that everyone is tempted to monkey with recipes, and sometimes to the recipe's improvement. You can't be a good cook without imagination, or a fair cook without the ability to make do. Further, while nearly all the great cooks are men, because of a certain creative gift, genius, has nothing to do with the slavish following of third-rate cooks. Among better-than-average cooks, I'd say women were miles ahead of men, in skill as well as numbers.

STILL and all, I have seen women do some pretty funny things with recipes, in a manner calculated to make a man's blood run cold. I must disguise the following story a little, to spare feeling all around, but it is essentially true.

Long ago there was a hostess of mine who decided to make a genuine oyster gumbo (only that was not the real dish she attempted). Now in a genuine oyster gumbo you parboil a pint of shucked or canned oysters in their own liquor until their edges curl (no more). Then you drain, and add the liquor to a quart of fish stock. You can readily make fish stock by simmering a couple of pounds of very cheap white fish with bones and trimmings... go and catch a brace of rock cod, for example...

You use about 3 pints of water. If you simmer more than an hour it may possibly grow bitter. Skim. Strain. Store in fridge till needed. That is a very simple and homely way of making fish stock, but it is good for many things.

WELL, you add your oyster liquor to a quart of fish stock. Cook 2 tablespoons of grated onion in 2 tablespoons of butter over low heat, stirring it, until it just colors. Then add to stock, butter and all. Add 1 cup of tinned and drained okra, and 2 cups of cooked or canned tomatoes, drained and chopped, season to taste with salt and pepper, and a little thyme; heat to boiling point, take off fire and stir in oysters over the fire, and 2 tablespoons of butter. Serve with toasted crackers or buttered toast. Now that is an oyster gumbo.

BUT when my hostess wished to make one, she didn't have exactly the right ingredients. She didn't even have oysters. So she made us a clam gumbo and laughingly called it an oyster gumbo. Her style is right. There was no fish stock, so she just boiled the clams for a long, long time with whatever seasoning she had on hand, and lacking okra, otherwise gumbo, she used rice instead. Actually, what was had was hard-boiled clams with rice. But she still called it oyster gumbo. As I said, this wasn't the actual dish she gave us, and misnamed. But it's the sort of thing that happens all too often, and all too terribly. If I told you the actual dish and its treatment, your hair would stand on end, and your stomach would stand on its head.

MORE HAIR ON END
WHEN reading a cookery book last night, my own hair stood on end, for I ran across a thing named Strawberry Soup. Feeling a little squeamish, I passed hurriedly on, the mere name enough for me. But being a morbid bloke, I went back to see what the devil was going on. And I found it wasn't a soup at all, but a Swedish kind of drink with berries in it... a cup, though, of a nasty sort. It is made of berries, claret, water, sugar, lemon, and (God help us) almond paste balls. That's bad enough. But at least it isn't a soup.

They do make a larger beer soup in Sweden, though. I am told by those who like it that it is good. I am told by those who hate it that it is murder. Me, I'll settle for a good old Dutch fruit salad, one recipe for which begins: "To one bottle of brandy and one of rum, add the following fruits..."

RUFF, BING, BANG
I SEE that Bing Crosby didn't know that U.S. stamps are no good in Canada. Well, that's nothing. At least he knows we have post offices way up here.

Now To Get It Back Together Again

As Our Readers See It

CIVIL SERVANTS
So I must pay $21 by July 1 before my family or I may receive hospitalization—that is what Mr. Johnson and his Liberal members of the government tell us. Whether I can scrape it up seems not to concern them.

But what is of concern to them is how the civil servants will vote—and so they propose to take more from me and other taxpayers so that they may raise their civil servants' salaries.

Civil servants—are they not receiving sufficient compensation already? Why practically every other month there is a holiday which gives them a long weekend to say nothing of their two weeks in the summer.

And watch them streaming out at five to five in the evening or strolling in after nine in the mornings, to their offices.

Taxpayers—do you realize increased wages for these civil servants will cost us from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 a year! Would not that take care of the hospital insurance deficit, Mr. Johnson?

MARY JONES.
3487 Seymour Street.

SLIP OF THE HAND
There appeared a photograph in Saturday's edition of the Daily Times with the following caption: "Lived After Chasing Reds," and it goes on to say a group of G.I.s, etc., with reference to a Russian weapon known as a potato masher.

May I suggest that this picture is of the recent coal mine disaster at Eastington colliery, County Durham, England. The men are definitely miners with a stretcher case, or victim of the disaster.

It would be interesting to know how such mistakes occur.

S. J. HILL.
Cobble Hill, B.C.
(Editor's Note: The error was noticed and corrected in the next edition.)

NO PARKING IN PARK
No park in Victoria had more beautiful trees, flowers, rock formation and scenery than Saxepoint Park. Yet today the tourist could scarcely find this park hidden more and more behind encroaching houses. An unmarked path and Fraser Street lead into the park; but what a scene unfolds. The carpet of grass and flowers of yesterday has been ground into this dirty parking lot by cars, whose drivers have broken beer bottles on the rocks where children played, refuse about. At the sea shore, loads of rubbish were dumped by a sign warning against dumping rubbish! There is even a car for sale in this park!

Cars should be fenced into a small parking lot at Fraser Street, and should never be allowed to be driven all over the grass which will soon be ruined.

NATIVE SON.

Political Paralysis In Britain

By JOSEPH ALSOP from London

THE PARALYSIS of the British government will probably be recorded by history as one of the major misfortunes of the year 1951. In the past six years, the British Labor Party has rebuilt the country's economy from its bombed-out foundations—an enormous achievement which should never be forgotten. But the fact that the Labor government is paralyzed today, especially in the sphere of foreign affairs, is also too important to be ignored.

What are the origins of this paralysis in Britain? One is inclined to name simple disillusionment as the root cause.

Within the last month, a symbolic confession has been published by the popular British philosopher, C. E. M. Joad. He was once a typically hopeful believer in the perfectibility of human society by science and socialism. But he has now grimly announced that the expected triumphs of science seem to him to be mainly horrors. And he has added that socialism, instead of bringing the promised fuller life to all, appears to be bringing everyone down to the same dead level of dreariness.

What this confession symbolizes is British socialism's loss of drive and even, perhaps, of faith in its own future. The British welfare state has been established, but that job is mainly done. Industry has been nationalized, but without producing any economic heaven-on-earth. National planning has been tested but the unanticipated drawbacks have almost balanced the hoped-for advantages.

Hence even the leaders and ideomen of British socialism, although they are

Cariboo Trail—Via The P.G.E.

By STUART KEATE

(This is the second of a series)
PEMBERTON MEADOWS, B.C.—Completion of the P.G.E. railway is a matter of desperate importance to the 300 whites and 600 Indians who live in this verdant valley 96 miles north of Vancouver.

The valley—30 miles long and a mile wide—is bordered by snow-capped mountain peaks of surpassing beauty. Their jagged crests look down on 36,000 acres of the finest agricultural land in British Columbia.

About 10,000 of these acres have been set aside for veterans' land grants. Another 10,000 are Indian property. The balance is owned privately, by a hardy band of pioneers who have no telephones and very little electricity. There is no doctor in the area; when a man gets sick (as one did during the Board of Trade visit), he must be taken to Squamish or Lillooet, where a Japanese graduate of U.B.C. serves the community.

DRAINAGE PROJECT
The land these people work grows grass green enough to inspire the bard of County Cork. Its potatoes come in boxing-glove size.

But for years the toil and privation of the pioneers have been intensified by floods from the rampaging Lillooet River. Already the federal government has spent $1.2 millions to bring it under control, in a drainage project. The work is expected to be completed in two years.

If the reclamation job is successful, and coincides with the completion of the P.G.E., the people of Pemberton Meadows may be rewarded for their years of travail. It is reported that land which sold for $10 an acre may appreciate to something like $150. Among the beneficiaries, of course, will be absentee landlords who have been holding the property against possible increment.

The B. of T.'s first stop on the tour was at Pemberton Meadows' community hall, a bare frame structure of rough fir and wooden benches, with a large pot-bellied stove in one corner.

Representing the Pemberton Board of Trade was a husky, darkly handsome young farmer named Fred Menzel. When he got up to address the city slickers from Vancouver he read self-consciously from a sheet of foolscap.

"I have to apologize that we didn't put on a better reception," he said. "Our president is sick and couldn't come. Our secretary sold out and left the valley. As a matter of fact, I'm the only member of the Board of Trade left."

Menzel's patent honesty had everyone on his side. Harry Stevens, vice-president of the Vancouver board, and former cabinet minister in the Meighen and Bennett governments, expressed official thanks and told Menzel that Vancouver business men would do all they can to get behind the area.

STUDY IN CONTRAST

These two made a striking picture at the head of the hall—Stevens, bearer of a dozen honorable political scars and a polished orator; Menzel the bashful, rawboned farm boy, an immigrant who was working this rich land with his own hands and finding life good in the lush valley beneath the snows.

Here was a reminder that there are still plenty of "last frontiers" for young Canadians willing to work. But isolated as they are, these people are denied the advantages of commerce for their products, these people still remain loyal citizens. During the last year, this tiny community raised more than $200,000. And by the railway station stands a cairn with three names on it, and this simple inscription: "These men died for their country."

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TORIN

EVEN the simplest of amateur detectives," said the Elevator Man, "knows that the first thing you have to look for at the scene of a crime is fingerprints. Just get a copy of the whorls and ridges, find out who they belong to and your crime's solved. Nothing to it. Before they invented fingerprints all kinds of mistakes were made. Now you can't go wrong, because no two persons in all creation have fingerprints exactly alike. At least, they've never found two alike yet. But it seems to me that because of detective stories and so on, we've concentrated too much on fingerprints. The truth is that there isn't anything else about human beings that's reproduced exactly in some other individual either. You'll never find an exact copy of an eye or an ear anywhere in nature. We're like leaves on the tree. At first glance they all look alike. But it doesn't take much examination to show their differences. Going up!

"Now," said the Elevator Man, "with human beings you can carry that farther. Our mental and personality differences are just as good identification as our physical clues. Often they can catch a criminal because they recognize his 'style' of job. He left his mark even though he wore gloves. And each one of us can be 'ticked' the same way. Many a time you recognize a friend on the street from his way of walking, before you see his face. You hear a laugh in another room and know immediately who gave it. And if you know him well you can even make a good guess at what he gave that kind of laugh about. Twenty years after he's moved out of town, you still remember how an acquaintance used to scratch his ear, how he reacted to a joke or a sob story. And he remembers the same things about you. Mezzanine!

"But," said the Elevator Man, "even that is only part of the story. You're known by the less tangible things—sunny or grouchy, fair or mean, generous or selfish? We all leave our prints, the only ones of their kind. And they put the finger on us for what we are."

That is only part of the story. You're known by the less tangible things—sunny or grouchy, fair or mean, generous or selfish? We all leave our prints, the only ones of their kind. And they put the finger on us for what we are."

When All The Facts Were In

MR. JUSTICE H. S. WOOD'S FINDINGS following the Ritchie inquiry—ordered when suggestions were made that Mrs. Ritchie had lost her unborn child because she could not gain immediate admittance to a Vancouver hospital—should have a sobering influence on individuals who have been too quick in their criticism. The Supreme Court Judge, although stating "it was indeed very desirable that Mrs. Ritchie should be in hospital," is of opinion that no ground existed "at any time to suggest the case was an emergency."

The central figure in the case may be assured of general sympathy. The incident, however, serves to indicate the readiness of some people and groups to pass judgment on hospitals without any adequate assessment of facts. That inclination has been all too apparent in attacks launched against hospitals in the fever heat created by resentment against certain features of the current insurance scheme.

It is not argued here that the plan is faultless. It is conceivable, moreover, in view of the scarcity of beds in recent months, that patients who should have been placed in hospitals have been unable to gain access to them. At the same time, the testimony given to Mr. Justice Wood—and it is to be assumed that the full story was understood by him better than it could have been by anyone else—refutes many of the innuendoes circulated at the time of the unfortunate occurrence.

If there is to be any public benefit extracted from the inquiry it should take the form of a more moderate and reasonable attitude to hospitals and to hospital insurance. In the solution of problems still ahead, a safer viewpoint on the part of a large number of citizens would be a valuable asset.

B.C. Continues To Hope

BRITISH COLUMBIANS WILL CONTINUE to hope the consultative committee on the Doukhobor question is justified in feeling "there is a real prospect of a permanent solution to the problem" caused by radical members of the sect in this province.

British Columbians will note, too, the Attorney-General's statement "the committee believed that the Sons of Freedom generally are completely in agreement with the committee's program and not in sympathy with those criminals who may be part of a small core of fanatics who wish to prevent a peaceful settlement."

The people of this province may reasonably be expected to accept the thesis that there are good Doukhobors and good Sons of Freedom who have been maligned by the violence and lawlessness of the fanatics. They would be infinitely reassured, however, if more positive proof were presented to indicate the measures taken by the Doukhobors themselves to cope with their own lawless element.

Too often our citizens have been led to believe that law-abiding Doukhobors neglect to assist the authorities in apprehending the criminal type. A few demonstrations by them of their readiness to help in stamping out violence, and of their unwillingness to shield malefactors, even if the protection they give the latter is merely passive, would prove to other British Columbians the Doukhobors' right to citizenship, with its privileges and responsibilities.

They are not showing citizenship virtues when they do anything less.

The Man With The Hose

INSTEAD OF IMPOSING WATERING restrictions officials of Oak Bay and Saanich are asking the public to use water for irrigation sparingly and at hours of the day and night when the load on the waterworks is lightest. If the public refuses to co-operate, restrictions will follow.

The waterworks officials face a difficult problem and no doubt they are meeting it as effectively as possible. But, though this is not their fault, their warnings to the public show how badly our municipal governments have served us in the primary business of providing adequate water supplies.

Here in Victoria and on the Saanich Peninsula is a rich garden, beautiful and productive, which only requires water, and not far off in the hills are abundant water supplies.

Yet today the gardener and the truck farmer who desire this water, who will use it to increase the beauty of the landscape or the supplies of foodstuffs, are regarded as a liability, almost as criminals. Whereas, of course, any man who buys water and uses it as nature intended to enrich the land is benefiting the whole community. For his expenditure of money and labor to improve the city and the countryside he merits everybody's thanks.

The water shortage, which restricts this man, is purely the result of human folly, the failure of municipal governments to plan for a growing population. It would be difficult to imagine a more vivid monument to stupidity than the farmer or gardener holding an empty hose with a policeman watching him as if he were a thief.

Where Hunger And Food Keep Pace

WITH APPROXIMATELY ONE-SIXTH of the globe's population living on less than three per cent of the earth's land surface, India presents a problem in Malthusian economics that is a constant warning to the more fortunate areas of the world. The doctrine of Malthus—that population presses on subsistence, that life will breed and multiply to the limit of the capacity of its environment to sustain it—appears to be operating in a classic manner in the Indian sub-continent.

Within the last 50 years, that country's inhabitants have increased by 54 per cent. Every increase in productivity, every success in providing more food, appears to be matched by a further increase in the number of mouths to be fed. Thus the ultimate question is being posed—even if the resources of the world were strained to furnish more and more food for India, would not the population increase correspondingly so that mass starvation remained an ever-constant threat?

The Malthusian doctrine would give a pessimistic answer to that query. The population mass could become a bottomless pit for outside aid. Other aspects remaining unchanged, war, pestilence and famine—the traditional factors in population control—would appear to be the only limiting agencies.

It is this doleful prospect that has moved many prominent Indians to give consideration to voluntary birth control as a regulatory measure. The problems of such a project in a country like India, would, of course, be monumental. The vast reservoir of humanity lies mainly in rural areas, where lack of education, of medical instruction and of recognition of the principles involved would probably impose insuperable obstacles to effective restriction. Ultimately, no doubt, some such limiting factor must become operative, but for the foreseeable future the long, hard road mapped by Malthus appears to be India's destined route.

Weather Picture Across Canada Today

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE TO DATE, 1951—1,029.9 HOURS

SYNOPSIS—Skies were still cloudy over the southern half of the province today while the more northern sections were sunny. Improvement was expected on the south coast today and in the southern interior tomorrow. The northern interior on the other hand will have a change to a more unsettled type of weather overnight as another polar air mass pushes southward. The main force of this cold air will once again head into Alberta but some effect of it will be felt in northern B.C. This should develop considerable shower activity in these regions by tomorrow.

Somewhat warmer temperatures can be expected in southern sections as the cloud decreases.

HOME GARDEN

There are books which the home gardener should own during the first year or two of operation.

These include a book on annuals, one on perennials, another on shrubs suitable to this coast. A good handbook on vegetable culture, and a garden encyclopedia will complete the beginner's library.

Before long, however, the average gardener will want to learn more about his plants, historically, botanically, and scientifically.

Books there are plenty, for all tastes, and each one will add greatly to the enjoyment of gardening. One which I think stands high on the list for general interest to an average reader is "The Romance of Plant Hunting," by F. Kingdon-Ward.

Not a new book by any means (first published in 1924), nor is it a ponderous, technical discourse. Instead, it is 250 pages of exciting adventures in collecting some of our most beloved plants.

Rhododendron, primula, campanula, mecopopsis, and iris are collected, and their native habitats discussed. If you have these plants, you will be fascinated by Kingdon-Ward's descriptions of the places where he found them, and there is much to learn about the conditions under which they will live.

If you do not grow any of them, the vivid word pictures painted by the author of his travels through the mountains, the scenery and the people, will thrill you, and you will be introduced to a whole new group of hardy plants for your garden.

Tables will be set on the property of Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell. The barbecue will begin at 2.30.

Excise, Sales Tax Changes Approved

$125,000,000 Additional Revenue
A Year Expected From Increases

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons, amid objections from the opposition, has approved all the excise and sales-tax changes announced in the 1951-52 federal budget.

A bill authorizing the changes was given third reading and adopted Wednesday after a last-ditch attempt was made to block passage of a 25 per cent increase in the general sales tax.

Members voted 138 to 50 against a C.C.F. proposal that the government reconsider the increase in the sales tax to 10 per cent from eight. The increase is expected to produce an additional $125,000,000 in revenue a year.

The measure, providing as well for increases in the excise tax on motor cars, electrical appliances and a list of luxury and semi-luxury goods, now goes to the predominantly Liberal Senate. All the taxes have been in effect since the budget was brought down April 10, but the legislation is needed to give them legal effect.

Works Hardship On Poor

In moving his motion for reconsideration of the sales tax increase, M. J. Caldwell, C.C.F. leader, reiterated some of the arguments advanced since the budget was introduced. He said the sales tax will boost an already high cost of living and will discriminate against those who can least bear the burden.

His motion was supported by the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties and by three Independents—J. L. Gibson (Comox-Alberni), P. E. Gagnon (Chicoutimi, Que.), and Dr. Raoul Poulin. The Liberals voted solidly against it.

J. M. Macdonnell (P.C., Toronto

Greenwood) said his party's arguments against the sales tax increase have been strengthened with time.

Members gave third reading to a bill overhauling Canada's weights and measures legislation for the first time since 1873. A major provision tightens up regulations against short weight in pre-packaged goods. It also has regulations for ensuring greater accuracy in measuring devices.

Also adopted was a government measure giving the provinces leeway in establishing the juvenile age in connection with court cases.

For second year in succession Frank H. Wills, son of Rev. and Mrs. Percy E. Wills, 1092 Cloverdale, topped year in pharmacy at University of B.C. Awards released this week revealed he obtained highest marks in third year and won $100 Cunningham scholarship. He is an R.C.A.F. veteran.

Transit Expert May Be Hired

VANCOUVER (CP)—A transit engineer from the United States may be retained by Vancouver to conduct an outside survey of B.C. Electric transportation services here.

Ald. Alex Fisher said Wednesday a well-known American engineer, who has just completed similar surveys in Seattle and San Francisco, may be hired.

The survey, estimated to cost between $8,000 and $10,000, will include reports on the frequency and efficiency of the transportation services.

Alderman Defends People's Pleasure

VANCOUVER (CP)—Aldermen disagreed with Police Chief Walter Mulligan today and ordered that a social club manager's license be issued to Peter Jow, who appealed to council after his license application had been turned down.

Jow plans to open a club on East Pender Street, in the Chinatown area.

"I object to the chief's statement," said Ald. Bert Showler. "They're trying to take away all the pleasure of the people."

BURSARIES FURTHER EDUCATION

27 Students Share $3,430

Victoria College today announced winners of scholarships and bursaries for the 1950-51 school year.

Twenty-seven students in first and second-year university training at the B.C.-affiliated college share $3,430 to assist them in furthering their scholastic training.

A total of $1,755 goes to sophomore students and $1,675 to freshmen. In addition two gold watches go to students of first and second-year classes.

Announcement of the prize list follows release of examination results three weeks ago. In its selection of winners, the college committee on prizes and scholarships voiced appreciation on behalf of the school, to clubs, business firms and individuals who honor top-ranking students, encouraging them to continue university studies.

Presented for the first time this year is the Camosun Gyro Club award of $25—"The Robert V. Anderson Memorial Scholarship"—to be awarded annually in memory of the late Bob Anderson, a former member of the club, to a promising and deserving first-year student.

SPECIAL AWARD

A special award for this session, the L.O.D.E. Golden Jubilee Scholarship of $100 for Canadian History, is won by an R.C.A.F. veteran and father of two children, Vernon C. Serl, 1451 Vining Street, who will continue studies at P.B.C. in the fall.

A true picture of the amounts each student won in scholarships and prizes is given under their pictures on this page, although they will not necessarily receive the total given. Some of the awards go to the second highest student by reversion.

Top student of the second year, Patricia J. Carstens, 2695 Topp Avenue, is the winner of six scholarships totalling $530.

She will receive $380. In addition, Miss Carstens wins a gold wrist watch presented annually by the Gruen Watch Co. through F. W. Francis Ltd. to the top college student.

Scholarships she won: $250 Sidney Roofing & Paper Co. Scholarship as leading second-year student continuing university studies; $100 special award for excellence in Latin, 90; $30 French Department prize for oral French.

And by reversion to others: $50 Royal Institution and Frank Eaton Memorial Scholarship for highest standing in second-year English; $50 Quita Nichol Bursary for excellence in second-year French; $50 Madame Sanderson Memorial Scholarship for excellence in English and French of the second year.

Second highest second-year student, Peter L. Smith, 1764 Cedar Hill Cross Road, who is the son of Harry Smith, Victoria High School principal, wins $300 in scholarships. None of his go by reversion to others.

$100 Kinsmen Club Scholarship for outstanding scholastic ability and promise; $100 Spenser Scholarship as leading student of the humanities in second year; $100 special award for excellence in Greek 202 and Latin 202.

SECOND-YEAR AWARD

Third highest second-year student, Jacqueline P. Sawyer, 1866 Forrester Street, wins $260 and will receive 180.

$130 Percy H. Elliott Memorial Scholarship as a student of outstanding merit and promise in one specific field of study; $50 Madame Sanderson Memorial Scholarship by reversion from Miss Carstens.

And reverting to another: $50

Wyllie prize and a book offered by Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Wyllie to the leading student in philosophy.

Leading student of first year, Beverly J. Fulton, 1503 Chambers Street, is the winner of $700 in scholarships—seven in all. She will receive $250.

$50 Quita Nichol Bursary for excellence in French; $150 Canadian Legion Sir Percy Lake Memorial Scholarship as a worthy student and close relative of a war veteran; $50 Victoria Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E. Scholarship as the daughter of a war veteran.

And reverting to others: $100 Quita Nichol Bursary for excellence in first-year French; $100 University Women's Club Scholarship as top first-year student; $100 B.C. Cement Co. Scholarship for excellence in chemistry 100; $150 Victoria Rotary Club Scholarship for highest standing in first-year English (Miss Fulton had marks equal to those of another student who receives the prize).

The second highest first-year student, Janice M. Bacon, 2729 Asquith Street, with two $100 scholarships:

MATHEMATICS AWARD

$100 T. Eaton Co. Scholarship for highest standing in mathematics, by reversion from Jack N. Merner; $100 Lions Club Scholarship for highest standing in Biology 100 and Chemistry 100.

BRIDGE LESSON

by Oswald Jacoby

"It must be somebody's birthday today," announced Generous George, "so I'll make you a present of this trick." It was an unusual trick to give away, but our hero certainly didn't lose anything by it.

The bidding had been tentative but reasonable enough. Playing for a game with four trumps in your own hand and three in the dummy is sound enough if you're a good player.

West opened the king of clubs and then shifted to the nine of spades. Dummy played the deuce of spades, East played the four of spades, and Generous George made his little speech and played the six of spades. The defenders were surprised, but not grateful to be given this trump trick. West led his remaining trump (as good as any lead at this minimum opening bid, and your hand is less than average in strength. Game is out of the question and one no-trump is as good a spot as any to stop.

B.C. Keeps Clear Of School Dispute

MALLAIRVILLE (CP)—The B.C. Government has decided to keep out of the parochial schools dispute here.

Municipal Council Wednesday accepted without comment a letter from Education Minister W. T. Straith advising that his department will not interfere in what he said was considered a purely local matter.

Mr. Straith said he was in touch with the situation and that he hoped Roman Catholic children removed to public schools after closing of the two parochial school in this district near Vancouver.

The Roman Catholic School Board closed its two schools, claiming the Provincial Government had not allocated enough funds for them to carry on.

Crux of the dispute is bus transportation.

The Roman Catholic School Board asked for free bus service as provided for public school students.

The 650 students involved were placed in the public schools and have been withdrawn intermittently for religious instruction.

Coleman's Column

By JIM COLEMAN

In what appears to be a flagrant example of unprovoked aggression, the city of Sherbrooke has declared war on the innocent gookers. The learned city fathers of Sherbrooke have decreed that, henceforth, the sale of peanuts in the Sherbrooke baseball park is prohibited. It is to be feared that such arrogant action will bring war to our borders. Baseball peanuts are born and raised in the state of Virginia and the gentlemen of Virginia, suh, aren't the type of southerners to accept an insult resting on their posterior. Any minute now, we can expect the Chicago Tribune to publish a thundering demand for reparations, apologies and unconditional surrender.

Even now, Colonel MacCosmic is shining his medals in his Tribune tower and preparing to advise the U.S. joint chiefs of staff on the proper manner in which to conduct the campaign. In committing this international gaucherie, the Sherbrooke city council justified its action with the lame excuse that peanut shells constitute a fire menace. They meekly mouthed to the effect that some maddened baseball fan might drop a burning cigarette butt among the peanut shells and burn down the grandstand.

Fate Foils Flight

For some time your correspondent has suspected that Sherbrooke is a backward community. Your correspondent, in his formative years, was committed to a private school at Lennoxville, hard by Sherbrooke. One fine spring day your correspondent decided to take it on the lam and, while the turnkey's back was turned, we bolted through the door and headed down the dusty highway. We sprinted under one of those Eastern Township covered bridges and headed for the Lennoxville freight yards, with the commendable plan of hopping a freight train for Sherbrooke.

The alarm bells sounded behind us and soon we were pursued by the masters and the entire student body. It was the head prefect, a chap named Red MacRae, who caught us and attempted to hold us until the paddy-wagon arrived. Since MacRae was a tall, sinewy character of 18, while your correspondent was a relatively puny child of 10, your correspondent took direct action. We employed an old western Canada infighting trick and kicked MacRae justly in what the newspaper advertisements describe euphemistically as "the vital zone." Dropped him like a shot, too! But they tramped us underneath the Lennoxville freight shed and we never did see Sherbrooke. Looking back on it now, we're just as glad that we didn't see the place.

From Baos To Riches

We submit that it is utterly impossible for the average baseball fan to enjoy a game if he is deprived of peanuts. There are two functions at which peanuts properly may be munched—baseball games and circuses. Do you remember the hawk's old cry: "What's a baseball game without peccunies?" In Vancouver, the baseball peanut-vendor used to be a fellow named Nat Bailey. He could stand at the bottom of the grandstand and toss a bag of peanuts accurately to a customer in the 23rd row. Also, he caught the coins unerringly. As a matter of fact, he could throw a bag of peanuts considerably further than many of the Vancouver outfielders could throw a baseball.

Kids Will Starve

We would like to take this opportunity to complain that, while the calibre of baseball hasn't improved, the cost of eating at baseball games has increased more than 100 per cent. In some Canadian cities, the concessionaires are demanding a larcenous 20 cents for a hotdog. Even in these inflated days, no youngster can purchase his regular ration of five hotdogs in an afternoon unless his father is a bank teller who is taking home samples each night. Soda pop now costs approximately as much as a magnum of Mumm's or Pommery.

The city of Sherbrooke has outlawed the time-honored bag of peanuts—the only comestible item which still sells for a reasonable dime. Oh, for the good old days when you could have a baseball game, sunstroke and acute gastritis, all for the price of half a buck.

Clarkson Takes Over Softball Batting Lead

Bernie Clarkson of Pitzer & Nex is the new leading batsman of the Senior A Softball League. He moved into the top spot by replacing teammate Bill Reynolds with an average of .400.

Reynolds dropped to second with an average of .368 and Jimmy John of Chinese Students moved up to .352. Base hits were at a premium last week with the pitching holding forth in four of the games. Several regulars dropped below .300.

Frank Kilshaw and John Burnston of Butler's Aces are high in doubles with four. Tommy Derr still shows the way in triples with three while Tim Walker of Bluebird Cabs is tied in home runs with Jim Turner of the Aces. Each has two.

Stan Tenning of Chinese Students picked up his fourth win last week for the league high. He has yet to taste defeat. Dixie Harper pitched his fourth

Sanders' Blow Beats Sidney

Norm Sanders singled in the last of the ninth inning to give Island Fuel Supply a close 12-11 decision over Sidney Roofing in Senior C men's softball action last night. The single by Sanders, who had homered earlier, scored Ray Vater from third with the winning run.

FINAL SELECTION MADE

Allen, Pickburn Make All-Stars

Bob Allen and John Pickburn will be in the all-star line-up tonight when the Vancouver Island reps take the field at Athletic Park against Fulham F.C., touring first division soccer side from England.

Tommy Restell, All-Star manager, said last night that an examination of Allen's ankle had revealed that it has healed sufficiently to let the young sandy-haired speedster start at outside right.

Pickburn was given the nod over Sid Robbins for the centre half position. Manager Bill Dodgin announced two changes from the line-up he released in Vancouver. Eddie Lowe will replace Robin Lawlor at left half and Arthur Stevens will play inside right in place of Jim Bowie.

The Fulham eleven, lighter and smaller than the All-Star side, will feature speed and ball control. Both clubs will be allowed three substitutions during the game, no replacements.

Kick-off time at Athletic Park tonight is 7. Team line-ups follow:

Richards Makes Heroes Of Chisox Waiver Waifs

Lou Kretlow, Harry Dorish, Randy Gumpert and Kenny Holcombe—Chicago's waiver waifs—are making faces red all around the American League. Kretlow, who he? That probably was the man-in-the-street reaction to yesterday's story on the blazing White Sox. Still a club—the Detroit Tigers—once thought enough of Lou to pay him a $35,000 bonus to sign off the Enid (Okla.) Army Air Force team.

Kretlow's 1950 record of 0-2 hardly stamped him as a man who boosted the White Sox league lead to four and one-half games. But manager Paul Richards seems to have a way with pitchers. After yesterday's neat four-hitter against Washington for a 4 to 2 win, both the Tigers and Browns would be glad to welcome him back.

Dorish, efficient reliever in nine games when Chicago pitchers needed help, made the rounds before he hit Comiskey Park. He's been bouncing up and down from minors to majors since 1947.

Then there's Gumpert—unbeaten at 4-0. The Athletics had him first—way back in 1936-37-38. They let him get away to the Yankee chain. New York found Randy useful in 1946 and 1947. But in July, 1948, off he went to the White Sox—at the waiver price.

Holcombe didn't stick long enough for waivers with most of the clubs. But at various times, between trips to the minors, he belonged to the Yankees, Cincinnati and White Sox.

ROUTE-GOERS
Richards got his fifth straight complete game yesterday in Kretlow's effort against Washington. Howie Judson, Billy Pierce, Saul Rogovin and Gumpert were the others to go all the way since the Sox last loss to Boston.

With a staggering 19-out-of-21 pace, the Sox are gradually pulling away from the pack while the Yanks and Red Sox fizzle.

RIZZUTO ERRS
A fumbled throw by usually dependable Phil Rizzuto cost the Yankees a 5 to 4 loss to the lowly St. Louis Browns. Rizzuto dropped the ball when Deising ran into him, Bero scoring. Detroit lowered the boom on Boston, 6 to 4, for the Red Sox's fifth straight loss. Alex Kellner handed Cleveland its second straight loss after nine straight wins, with a seven-hitter.

Indians Here In Name Only

Dickinson Speechless As Shamrocks Rampant

By LANCE WHITTAKER

"My, but that was rough!" The young fair-haired lad in blue blazer with the Fulham crest pushed his eyes back in their sockets, straightened his tie and groggily made his way out of the Memorial Arena. Maybe it was a good thing that last night's 17 to 5 Shamrock victory over North Shore Indians was one of the cleanest games this season. The Cockney lad couldn't have stood much more.

Bill Dickinson had about all he could take too. The usually voluble Indian coach, who said before the game that he finally had the Indians in shape, just swung his head like a baffled bull when asked for post-game comment. Rocks eight goals in less than nine minutes had left the talkative Dickinson speechless.

GOOD START
The North Shore squad started well, holding the Irish scoreless for the first seven minutes of the game while firing seven shots to the Victorians' five.

In the second stanza Duffer McGeachy ran wild, with three goals in 10 minutes, but the Redskins held the rest of the 'Rocks and matched them goal for goal. The 7 to 3 half-time score was nearly all McGeachy.

In the third, the mainlanders picked up one of their dropped stitches, Larry Crema and Bo Bradford getting tallies while 'Rocks were held to a singleton by Archie Browning.

It was in the final 15 minutes that Indians fell apart. Whitey Severson and Archie Browning, evidently feeling that the evening was wearing on without tangible results in the individual scoring statistics, turned loose the most devastating one-period attack seen in the league this year.

After Bob Monaghan had got himself a marker at the 112 point the blonde duo took over, Severson getting five goals and Browning three before they eased off near the 13-minute mark.

Eight of the last period markers came within nine minutes, and three of Severson's goals were consecutive.

TOP SCORING
The splurge puts Browning and Severson one-two in the league scoring. The four goals gives Browning a one-point edge over Baker, Severson and Vancouver Combines' Jim Anderson.

Victoria's blonde blasters will get a chance to extend their lead further tonight when they meet Commandos on their home floor at New Westminster.

Still experimenting with line changes, Arnold Ferguson will rest Art Green and use Darrell Popham again.

A win over second-place New Westminster tonight would give the Irish a firmer clutch on top place in the standings.

MEYER'S JOB NOW IS TO KEEP RICKEY HAPPY

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Billy Meyer still has his job today and likely will keep it as long as his way of managing the Pittsburgh Pirates satisfies the man that counts—Branch Rickey.

At the moment, Meyer's methods apparently do satisfy, despite the fact that the Pirates are languishing deep in the National League cellar.

But Rickey, on the surface at least, does not hold the likeable field manager responsible for Pittsburgh's bad plight. He is dissatisfied with the club's showing, but admits "regretfully" he can expect no better at the present.

As for widespread reports that Meyer was to be dismissed, Rickey scoffed: "I've always credited Meyer, even when I was on opposing clubs, as a man of good judgment in taking out pitchers." Rickey told a press conference yesterday. "Now that we're on the same team I find nothing to the contrary."

MISERY BAY YIELDS WEEK'S BIG SPRING

Silver, Bronze Buttons Won By Derby Entries, Taken As Silver Horde Runs In Saanich Inlet

The big springs arrived in Saanich Inlet this week and among catches recorded at the Goldstream and Anchorage at Brentwood boathouses were two silver-button winning salmon and several of bronze-button size.

Boathouse men report fishing was excellent during the first two days of the week but that it had fallen off since.

Although results of the weekly competition of the 10-week ladder derby of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association had not been released up to this morning, it looks like S. G. Gardner's 35-pounder tops the list.

Gardner won his silver button with the catch, taking the heavy Louie plug with 200 feet of line out weighted by a pound of lead. Dr. J. B. Roberts reeled in a 30 1/2-pounder off Chesterfield rock with the same lure, length of line and weight. He was not entered in the derby, May Hall reported.

Harry Peard reported J. V. Harbord came in with a 27-pounder. He also could not qualify for the ladder. He had a derby entry ticket but had failed to purchase a membership. Hall's reported that Bill Robinson registered a 21-pounder and that R. W. Ray won his bronze button with a 23-pounder. George Sheridan reeled in one weighing 24.12 pounds.

From reports on the volume of fish weighed-in for ladder derby prizes, all 46 runs for the weekly event that closed Tuesday night were filled, derbyists weighing in the very small ones being knocked off.

There were quite a number of 17, 18 and 19-pounders entered.

COUGARS-HABS RENEW PACT
MONTREAL (CP)—Victoria Cougars of the Pacific Coast Hockey League Wednesday renewed their agreement with the National League's Montreal Canadiens, general manager Frank Selke of Canadiens said.

Selke said heads of both clubs signed the agreement during a recess from the N.H.L.'s four-day meeting here.

Attending the conference were Lester Patrick, owner of the Cougars, and Fred Hutchinson, general manager.

Last year's P.C.H.L. champions, the Cougars, have been a farm club of Montreal Canadiens for two seasons.

Angels Climb As Coast Race Tightens Even More

Los Angeles Angels moved into a three-way tie for fourth place in the Pacific Coast Baseball League standings last night with a 6 to 3 triumph over Oakland, Oaks and Portland Beavers are in on the deadlock.

Beavers broke a scoreless tie in the seventh inning by collecting six runs and then went on to defeat Seattle Rainiers 8 to 3 in their clash.

Reliever Frank Nelson dished up four straight balls to Jim Taber with the bases loaded to force in the winning run and give San Diego a 3 to 2, 11-inning win over Sacramento.

San Francisco Seals, in a day game, capitalized on a third-inning lead against Hollywood to win their fourth straight coast game, 4 to 3. Chet Johnson went all the way against the Stars.

Sweden Looms As Cup Threat

LONDON (Reuters)—For the first time in 14 years Europe has more than an outside chance to provide a finalist in the Davis Cup—at the expense of the United States.

Advent of a new singles star in hard-hitting Sven Davidson has established Sweden as the "dark-horse" entry in this year's world lawn tennis team classic.

Since 1937 the trophy donated in 1900 by American Dwight F. Davis has crossed the Pacific between the United States and Australia.

Last year the Swedes blasted their way into the interzone final where they gave Australia, North American zone winners, a grueling time before bowing 3-2. Australia went on to win the cup by whipping the U.S. 4-1.

Pacing Sweden's challenge is stylist Lennart Bergelin, the blond giant who crowned an unbeaten Davis Cup singles run last year with victories over the star Australians, Frank Sedgman and John Bromwich.

Dark-haired Davidson, 21, played only doubles against Australia, but has now rocketed to world class in singles to oust stocky Torsten Johansson from the No. 2 singles spot.

During the winter Davidson won the singles title of India, with a final victory over the self-exiled Czech ace Jaroslav Drobny. He also took the Indian hard-court title.

In Egypt, on his way home, the tall Swede toppled Wimbledon champion Budge Patty.

Bergelin and Davidson have carried Sweden into the quarter-finals of the European zone, where they meet Britain next week. And Sweden should have an easy passage into the semi-final.

The Swedes aren't worried about the opposition in Europe. Their guns are trained across the Atlantic.

Not So Beautiful, But Oh, How John Did Pitch

By BILL WALKER

Dear readers:

At the risk of being repeated it is our pleasant duty to inform you that the Athletics are once again out of eighth place in the W.I.L. today.

This happy state of affairs exists because of two things—one, John Tierney, a pitcher, and the other, fate.

Fate is something about which we know little, so we'll leave it alone.

But let's take the case of John to hand.

John came to the A's from Portland Beavers late this spring. He was regarded in some quarters as a sure-fire winner, mainly on his record of last season with Salem.

But John didn't get off to a very good start. As a matter of fact it was so poor that manager Dick Barrett put him to work picking splinters on various dugout benches throughout the Western International League.

WORTH A TRY

Five days ago, Barrett decided John was worthy of another chance. At least, he couldn't do much worse than some of the higher-paid help, Barrett figured.

John made good on that opportunity as he hurled the A's to a 5 to 3 win over Wenatchee Chiefs.

Last night Barrett again beckoned the hatchet-faced right-hander to toe the mound.

And again John came through, flying by leading the A's to a 3 to 2 win over Tri-City Braves.

GLOSSY COAT

However, it wasn't so much the victory that struck the eye; nor the fact that the A's are, for the second time in three days, no longer sole occupants of eighth place, but rather it was the finish that John applied to his business-like performance.

Given a one-run lead to work on in the ninth—the A's had been the recipients of three unearned tallies up until this time—Tierney found himself in a jam when ponderous Nick Pesut opened the inning with a scratch double down the left field line.

STRIKE THREE

But thanks to Tierney, Pesut got no further than second. He struck out pinch-hitter Cy Greenlaw on a called third strike. He got second baseman Al Spaeter the same way and then touched off the sequence by leaving Vic Buccola standing at the plate as a curve ball dipped over the outside corner for called strike three.

Ebb Costello matched Tierney in performance but was the victim of some atrocious support.

He was charged with two runs when third baseman Sam Kelanos in attempting a double play in the third inning threw the ball into right field enabling Marvin Diercks to score from second and Don Pries to scamper home all the way to first.

Then in the seventh he saw shortstop Bud Petersoff uncork a wild wave that allowed Tierney to score from second with what proved to be the winning run.

A double by Spaeter, a fielder's choice and an outfield fly by Clint Cameron gave Tri-City its first run in the third. A single by Petersoff, a passed ball and Neil Bryant's smash into left field produced the second tally in the eighth.

STURGEON HERE

The A's leave today for Salem where they open a four-game series Friday night with Bob Sturgeon in the fold.

Sturgeon checked in late last night and will fill the shortstop hole until Billy Dunn is recovered from his ankle injury.

Games scheduled in the Colwood and District Softball League this week follow: Thursday, girls—North Saanich vs. Saanichton; Sunday, midget boys—Sooke vs. Saanichton; midget girls—Sooke vs. Saanichton.

Chandler To Quit Post 'At His Own Pleasure'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler said today that machinery already in motion for him to quit but that he will do so only "at my pleasure."

He said a "severance contract" already is in the hands of major league club owners and that he would resign "some time" after they all have signed it.

There were indications, however, that the owners will sign the contract quickly and that Chandler will announce his resignation shortly after they do, perhaps, as early as the end of this month.

"The date of my resignation was purposely left blank in the contract," Chandler explained, "and after the owners all sign the contract, I will fill in the date at my pleasure."

Chandler's contract as baseball commissioner expires May 1, 1952, and although the owners voted not to renew it last December, Chandler previously had announced his intention of serving his term "until the last second."

The severance contract which Chandler submitted to the owners about two or three weeks ago contains a clause, he said, which will protect him against "any and all" lawsuits currently pending against baseball.

Far from downcast at the prospect of his leaving, Chandler explained that all the club owners he had talked with, who have examined the contract, said that they thought it was "fair and just."

Chandler added that he had been thinking about resigning "in the back of his mind" but he had not decided upon an exact date.

The contract, which paves the way for Chandler's formal exit, was drawn up some time ago, he said, and was gone over thoroughly by attorneys Benjamin Flery, of the American League, and Lewis Carroll, of the National League.

Elizabeth Takes King's Birthday Parade Salute

Honors List Names Gen. Freyberg, Actors, Ballet Director; Miss Truman Sees Show

LONDON (AP).—London today celebrated the King's official birthday.

As the King continued a four-week rest, recuperating from influenza, Princess Elizabeth mounted her chestnut charger, Winston, to take the salute for the King at the annual trooping of the colors by the brigade of guards.

President Truman's daughter Margaret, was in the crowd at the colorful ceremony, which began over 200 years ago as a sobering-up exercise for Royal troops.

The King's 55th birthday actually was last Dec. 14. But his anniversary is always celebrated in June, so that the ceremony will have a reasonable expectancy of favorable weather.

This year, however, Princess Elizabeth's scarlet tunic and long, dark blue skirt outshone the dry but grey skies.

To mark the occasion, the King in his annual birthday honors list bestowed three baronies, a baronetcy, 29 knightships and various appointments to minor orders. Among those named were New Zealand's war hero, Sir Bernard Freyberg, State Minister Kenneth Younger, actors Godfrey Tearle and A. E. Mathews, actress Peggy Ashcroft and ballerina Margot Fonteyn.

Among the 10,000 persons who packed the stands and surrounded the parade ground was Norway's King Haakon, dressed in pale blue. He is here on a state visit.

Thousands lined The Mall and cheered as Princess Elizabeth rode from Buckingham Palace to the Horse Guards Parade ground across St. James Park from the palace.

The mounted band of the Horse Guards preceded her.

Her son, three-year-old Charles, rode to the parade grounds in an open carriage, tucked between Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret.

He waved shyly to the delighted crowd.

Dies Listening To 'Clear, Nice Music'

VANCOUVER (CP).—George Clark, 57-year-old movie publicity man, was found fatally injured Tuesday under a dress shop skylight.

He apparently fell from his apartment window.

Clark died after telling a police constable: "It's clear music—it's nice music."

NUNS BEATEN, HUMILIATED BY CHINESE

HONGKONG (Reuters).—Two Catholic nuns described yesterday how Chinese troops in Nanking beat them and held them prisoner in a room with six others for nearly a month.

The nuns said they were often struck with rifle butts or kicked. They had been allowed to wear only underwear and aprons and were forbidden to pray or to speak to each other.

The two, Mother Marie Achilla (Juliana Weber of Guzon, Poland) and Mother Du B. Robert Lebis (Marcelle Blancherie of St. Armand, France) are members of the Franciscan Missionaries of Mary.

They arrived here Tuesday after expulsion by the Communists, who had condemned them at a trial they were not allowed to attend.

Seek Lumberjacks In Scotland For Canadian Woods

INVERNESS, Scotland (CP).—A. B. Thursby, Ontario government official, arrived Wednesday to recruit lumberjacks for summer work in Canada.

Thursby has already hired 88 men in Glasgow and is looking for 60 more to complete the number required by the Great Lakes Paper Company of Fort William, Ont. He is working in co-operation with R. G. MacDougall, Canadian government immigration officer.

In London, authorities said Thursby is just one of a steadily increasing number of Canadian representatives now in Britain seeking to line up emigrants for industries in the Dominion. In the last month, private individuals from Ottawa and Goderich, Ont., have even come over seeking married couples willing to work as cook and butler.

Presbyterian Moderator

OTTAWA (CP).—A tall, distinguished-looking Scot who won the Military Cross as a captain in the First World War and who now is minister of First Presbyterian Church in Regina, Wednesday night was elected Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Rev. Norman Kennedy, 55, was elected by a majority on the first ballot to succeed Montreal Presbyterian College's Rev. Dr. Frank Scott MacKenzie.

His election came shortly after the opening of the 77th General Assembly of the church in the capital's oldest Protestant church, St. Andrew's.

The commissioners, ministerial and lay delegates, represent 46 Presbyteries from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

Following Dr. MacKenzie's sermon calling for self sacrifice on the part of all church members to oppose enemies of the church, Mr. Kennedy's first act as moderator was to appoint a personal chaplain, the first in the church's history. His choice was Rev. Wallace MacKinnon, of Moose Jaw, Sask., the first personal chaplain to a moderator in the history of the Presbyterian church.

The General Assembly for the next eight days will consider reports on home and foreign missions, the Women's Missionary Society, changes affecting ministers, congregations and students, radio broadcasting and pensions.

30,000 Guerrillas Behind U.N. Lines

PUSAN, Korea (AP).—South Korean police estimated Wednesday that 30,000 Korean guerrillas have infiltrated behind United Nations lines since last April. About half of them were armed.

Defence Minister Lee Ki Poong said that a new drive is on to clean up the Reds.

Only last Sunday a small group of 40 guerrillas attacked a South Korean prison 60 miles west of Pusan, but police drove them off after killing one.

BE PREPARED!

In the news columns of the daily and weekly newspapers you have read that in the event of war British Columbia will not occupy a favoured position. In short, it is liable to be attacked by a potential enemy.

Consequently, it is vital that each and everyone of us learns the facts about such an attack... what to expect and how to prepare to fight back. Such preparation does not bring war any closer, nor does it mean war is imminent. It is just sound common sense.

Your Federal and Provincial Governments have started a Civil Defence Organization and soon local Civil Defence will become an integral part of community life. The outcome, in case of war or disaster, will depend on your knowledge and co-operation, together with the assistance of a trained and up to date Civil Defence Corps. During the early stages, there will be a shortage of qualified instructors and other facilities, but active steps are being taken to remedy the situation as quickly as possible.

Everyone must accept the fact that attack can happen and that Civil Defence is essential if we are to maintain our way of life.

Authoritative sources say, "It is possible to prevent 75% of the death, injury and horror wrought by attack if we are prepared."

Your Provincial Government is therefore publishing this series of bulletins on Civil Defence, which will appear weekly in newspapers throughout the Province. These bulletins will provide you with simple basic information. They will give you the facts that will enable you to do your part in protecting the lives and property of your neighbours, your family and yourself.

You must know and do your part... National survival and our way of life depend on you. Read these bulletins... clip them out, know them and act upon them.

Watch for another bulletin in next week's newspaper.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

There were two of them, and they lived over in the Green Forest. They were imps. Anyway, that is what everybody who saw them called them.

"They are imps and nothing less," declared Old Man Coyote. He sounded as if he meant it. He did.

"They are the worst imps in all the Green Forest," snorted Lightfoot the Deer. He meant it, too.

"I am glad they are not mine," said Mrs. Reddy Fox. "I'm sorry for their mother."

"Huh!" exclaimed Reddy Fox. "She should have brought them up better."

"Those imps get into more mischief than all the other children in the Green Forest," said Mrs. Lightfoot, whose own precious twins were model children. Perhaps that is because they did not dare be otherwise. You know there are no more timid folk than the Deer folk, especially mothers and their babies, the little spotted babies called Fawns.

"Never in all my life have I seen such imps as those two," declared Mrs. Paddy the Beaver.

Paddy chuckled. "You better not let their mother hear you say that," he said.

"The poor thing," said Mrs. Paddy. "She looks worn out, and I should think she would be. I would be in her place. Those imps never give her any peace except when they are asleep. I'm glad our children are not like that."

Paddy interrupted. He slapped the water with his tail. He slapped it hard. It sounded almost like the noise of a dreadful gun. Instantly, there were three splashes in the water by the dam that made the little pond. Three little beavers had minded their father's signal and plunged into the water.

Paddy chuckled. "If Mother Bear's imps had been taught to mind like that they wouldn't be imps. No, sir, they wouldn't be imps. And their mother wouldn't look so worried and worn out. But then, it probably is her own fault. She should have brought them up better."

"Caw, caw, caw!" screamed Blacky the Crow, a short distance away. He was excited. "Caw, caw, caw!" he shrieked.

Mrs. Paddy looked at Paddy and returned his grin. "If I know anything about it," she said, "Blacky sees those imps in some kind of mischief right this minute. I saw their mother coming from that direction a little while ago. She probably left them in a tree over there while she went to look for something to eat."

Someone else heard Blacky and stopped to listen. He had been shuffling along the Crooked Little Path on his way to the foot of the Great Mountain. "I wonder what that rascal is getting so excited about?" growled Buster Bear way down in his throat. He took two or three steps as if he were going over to find out the cause of Blacky's excitement. Then he changed his mind. Buster is a great hand to change his mind. He starts to do a thing, in a moment forgets what he is going to do, starts something else and forgets that, and sometimes he makes half a dozen starts before he really makes up his mind what he wants to do. Now he turned back once more to the Crooked Little Path and began to shuffle along toward the Great Mountain. Presumably he came in sight of Blacky flying about near the top of a tall pine tree. Carefully, very carefully, Buster moved forward until he could see that tree clearly. "Huh! It's those imps!" exclaimed Buster in his deepest, most grumbly voice.

So it was, and those imps were Buster Bear's own cubs.

By ART STOTT

It should be easy enough to write a column ridiculing the appearance of the zoot suit. It lends itself to caricature—the loose drape of the upper part of the trousers, narrowing down to the tight cuff, the absurdly long coat with padded shoulders, and the looping key chain dangling toward the knees.

It should be easy to lampoon the outlandish garb. But when a guy of my generation tries to do it, somewhere in the background he hears a voice singing an old song called "College," and that conjures up the fantastic image of an earlier year. He sees an adolescent in a pair of balloon trousers, baggy at the bottom. He sees a torso clad in what used to be called a jazz sweater. That was a garment, tight-fitting as the skin on a sausage and brilliant enough to pale the rainbow.

IT TAKES THE scorn out of the laughter he might direct at a zoot suit. The zooter has just reversed the figure he used to cut in his teens. The zooter is artificially broad at the shoulders and narrow at the ankles. He was broad at the ankles and narrow at the shoulders. The zooter just doesn't appreciate the John Held, Jr. cartoon, and is too young to remember it, anyhow.

Maybe the guy of my generation may recognize a similarity in cause for the vastly different styles of the two ages. The boy in his teens—not yet a man—craves attention. One of the ways of getting it is through exaggerated dress. He puts on clothes that scream, "Look at me, look at me." And people look. They may find the garb ludicrous; but they look.

THE GUY OF MY generation wants to laugh, too, when he sees a duck-cut head of hair. It seems unnatural to wear hair short on top, and long at the back, with the parting stretching down through the thick growth to the top of the spine. It's just as crazy as my adolescent pompadour, trained backward in vase-shaped spikes by wearing a stocking cap to bed.

Vaguely you remember, if you belong to my generation, that the older folks took a pretty dim view of jazz sweaters and Oxford bags. They saw them as a reflection on the intelligence of boys who wore them. Then the young in heart began to move towards the loose trousers and gay sweaters, too. Eventually it became hard to buy a pair of narrow-legged pants at any store. And editorial pundits frequently took up the cause of more brilliant attire for men.

Gradually that eccentricity of dress lost its power to attract attention. Boys and immature minds turned to eating live goldfish and flagpole-sitting for notoriety. It was a little pathetic. They appeared to have no other means of claiming attention. They'd try anything to catch the public eye.

THEN THE ZOOT suit came along to fix comment on the adolescent's dress again. It might have been just as harmless and no more obnoxious than the jazz sweater and the baggy trousers, only it became identified as the uniform of young hoodlums.

If you look back through the family album, though, you may notice some similarity between the zoot suit and the old peg-tops and long coats of grandpa's day. You've been told grandpa lived in a highly respectable age, even if his photograph looks a bit "zooty" when you come to think of it. And if you turn over a page or two in the same album, you'll notice that loosely draped chains aren't particularly modern, either.

The flashbacks may remind you of another feature of life in grandpa's day. Juvenile self-expression wasn't encouraged to the extent it is now, and juvenile misdeemeanors used to bring fairly prompt corrective measures in the woodshed.

THAT MIGHT suggest the idea that the style of clothes a kid wears, stigmatized as the vogue may be by its popularity among an undesirable element, isn't necessarily a symbol of viciousness. You can't blame the tailor for what goes into the finished garment. You have to look not just closer to home, but into the home itself for the responsibility.

It might be a good idea if parents quit worrying about zoot suits as a species and considered the individual youngsters who are closest to them. They've had sufficient warning about the results of war and postwar conditions on the younger generation. They were told enough about the so-called "latch-key kids," the ones who fenced for themselves while fathers were away and mothers were engaged in war work. They know the old story of the one bad apple and its effect on the good ones in the barrel.

If they're shocked and disgusted by youngsters who copy individuals who brought the zoot suit into disrepute, they should remember those youngsters didn't buy their personalities as an accessory to peg-top pants. The personalities and characters were 90 per cent home grown.

Scottish Officers Hold Annual Reunion

Eight officers of Canadian Scottish Regt., who went ashore together in D-Day Normandy invasion, gathered at home of Brig. F. N. Cabeldu Wednesday on occasion of annual "beachhead" reunion. From left: Lt.-Col. D. G. Crofton, Salt

Spring Island; Lt.-Col. Cyril Wightman, Lt.-Col. Richard Lendrum, Duncan; Lt.-Col. Larry Henderson, Maj. A. H. Plows, Duncan; Lt.-Col. E. G. English, Chamaus; Cabeldu, Maj. E. Stewart.

'Zoot-Suit' Fracas Now Believed Finished

Firm action of city police squads and military police today apparently had brought to an end hostilities between army and navy personnel and drape-trousered local youths which rocked the city four successive nights.

For the first night since last Saturday—when the near-riots started—downtown streets Wednesday night were peaceful, as large city police and army and navy patrols roamed about.

Meanwhile, the Daily Times learned, the fracas have sent four persons, including three servicemen, to hospitals, instead of two, as authorities previously disclosed.

Two sailors have also been painfully hurt in the brawls and are in hospital at H.M.C.S. Naden, it was learned. Their names were not disclosed. Previous hospitalized casualties as announced included a soldier and a young civilian.

There was some talk late today about a "showdown" collision with the two factions for Saturday night, but this is not considered likely by police officials.

TO MAINTAIN PATROLS

"We are going to maintain strong patrols until we are sure the danger is over," Chief of Police John Blackstock asserted. Y.M.C.A. officials said no plans have been made as yet to revive Saturday night dances at the "Y" canceled because of the fighting.

However, no trouble arose at Wednesday night's servicemen's dance at the "Y".

CAMP OPENING SET

Service Clubs Ready Cabins At Sooke Site

Fifteen Victoria service clubs today put the finishing touches on the cabins they sponsor at Sunshine Camp, Sooke, in preparation for the camping season which opens Monday, June 18.

Run by the Family and Children's Services and operated with the aid of an annual Community Chest grant, it provides holidays for those who would otherwise have none.

Last year, of 251 campers the oldest was 95 and the youngest three.

Work has been done by parties from Victoria North Kiwanis, King's Daughters, auxiliary to United Commercial Travelers, Knights of Pythias, Victoria Kiwanis, Kinsmen, Gyro, Elks, Rotary, Anns, Eagles, Lions, St. Margaret's School, Stages and Army and Navy Veterans.

Camp schedule follows: Senior citizens, June 18-28; H.Y. June 28-July 4; St. John Ambulance Girl Cadets, July 4-14; Canadian National Institute for the Blind, July 17-27; children, six to 12, July 27-Aug. 6; mothers and children, Aug. 7-17; second camp for children, six and older, Aug. 17-24.

Responsibility Of Municipal Groups Told

An unheralded enemy attack on B.C. must be considered "highly possible," Maj.-Gen. G. R. Stein, provincial civil defense co-ordinator, said this afternoon at the closing session of the two-day conference of the Municipal Officers' Association of B.C. at the Empress Hotel.

Such an attack may come by air, sea or through sabotage, he said, pointing out that civil defense organizations will place an important role in any attack.

He listed federal responsibility in policy, warning, instruction, provision of equipment, and co-ordination with other agencies. The province is responsible for civil defense organization where it is considered necessary, he said, for training within the province, and for providing legislation to permit local authorities to operate.

"Since the municipality is nearest to the people, the actual civil defense organization must be a municipal responsibility," Maj.-Gen. Stein said.

"I cannot stress too strongly that, no matter how much the senior governments do, no civil defense preparations can be effective unless each municipality carries out its designated role," he concluded.

Today the municipal officers heard principles of assessment reviewed by Roy Howay, president of B.C. Assessors' Association, and a discussion of the Municipal Act led by B. C. Bracewell, deputy minister of municipal affairs.

May Appear Here

Margaret Truman, daughter of the U.S. President, may make appearances next spring both here and in Vancouver, a Famous Artists Ltd. spokesman said today.

He declared Miss Truman is expected to sing in Vancouver in March or April. She is now on a visit to Great Britain.

$500,000 Building For Laboratory At Dockyard

Expansion and housing of the Pacific naval laboratory at H.M.C. dockyard in a new $500,000 building at Esquimalt naval base was indicated today in an unconfirmed report from Ottawa.

An official release from the Defense Research Board later in the week is expected to reveal details of plans for larger defense department research facilities here.

Naval officials declined comment on the report, explaining that the Defense Research Board is an agency of the Department of National Defense, "practically a separate service."

Confirmation of plans for the building of a new gymnasium at H.M.C. Naden, to be one of the largest of its kind in western Canada, puts projected new construction at the naval base at the $3,000,000 mark. The gymnasium, to be 136 by 96 feet, housed in a building 150 by 200 feet, will be built on completion of the $1,000,000 concrete barracks block announced earlier.

Recreation facilities provided in the new building will include floor space for three squash courts, a second, smaller gymnasium, four bowling alleys, locker space for 1,000 people, offices and classrooms.

Other new buildings to be erected include a diesel workshop, shop, to cost $400,000, and a $800,000 electrical workshop.

Island Lodgemen Will Gather Here

Odd Fellows from lodges at Port Alberni, Cumberland and Courtenay, Nanaimo, Ladysmith and Duncan will gather at Odd Fellows Hall here on Douglas Street at 3 Saturday afternoon to form a district association.

Plans will be made to hold two or three meetings a year at various island places with home lodges acting as hosts.

City shrimpers who have been attending convention sessions in Vancouver will board the Princess Kathleen this week-end for a 10-day trip to Alaskan ports through the little-frequented waters of Behm Canal, Glacier Bay and Gardner Canal.

The Kathleen, fastest cruise ship in the Alaska trade, will leave Vancouver on the first of eight 10-day special cruises with a near-capacity passenger list. She is under the command of Capt. Graham Hughes.

Overseas League

During the past year 39 new members have joined the Overseas League, bringing total membership to 150, it was announced at the annual general meeting.

Maj. H. T. Nation was elected chairman, with Miss K. M. E. Ledger as honorary secretary and Victor Price honorary treasurer.

Committee members elected were Mrs. Harold Nation, Mrs. E. Anderson, Mrs. Victor Price, Mrs. M. G. Newcomen, Miss Lottie Bowron, Brig. W. G. Colquhoun, Maj. J. C. Dufresne, H. C. Mangin, and H. W. Edwards.

Lightest Poll Ever In City Election

Electors Display Little Interest
In Voting For Aldermanic Seat

One of the lightest votes ever cast here was indicated at noon today as Victorians went to the polls in an aldermanic by-election unique in Victoria's history.

At 11.30 this morning 523 ballots had been cast, compared to 718 at the same time in the February by-election which saw Ald. Robert Macmillan elected to the council. Total vote at that time was 3,999.

Of 18,893 registered voters, 3,000 to 3,500 are expected to cast ballots by 7 tonight to elect one alderman from a field of three to serve a year-and-a-half term.

THREE CANDIDATES

Candidates are: Arthur Dowell, 1992 Fairfield Road; Harold E. Ker, 1744 Duchess, and William H. Williams, 2912 Quadra. Mr. Ker and Mr. Williams have both been unsuccessful candidates in previous elections. They are running as independents. Mr. Dowell, backed by the Non-Partisan League, is seeking office for the first time.

The by-election, second in five months, resulted from the resignation in May of Mrs. J. D. Hunter, the former Ald. Hilda Baxter. Another by-election was held last February, owing to property disqualification of Roy Whittle.

Results will be known within an hour of poll closing, Mr. Frank Hunter, returning officer, said.

It is believed the first time two by-elections have ever been held in the one year in Victoria.

Complete election coverage will be provided by The Victoria Daily Times 8 p.m. news broadcast over radio station CKDA.

Police Probe Fresh Outbreak Of Thefts Here

City detectives today were investigating a fresh outbreak of shopbreaking and other thefts during the night which netted thieves, believed to be juveniles, about $100 in cash and goods.

Thefts included: About $55 worth of auto accessories taken from cars parked on the lot of the Tip Top Auto Sales Ltd., 1030 Yates Street.

Mrs. A. Malachouk, 2709 Bridge Street, told police that someone entered her home and stole $10 from her purse lying on the table.

Child Hit By Car

John Clark, five, of 524 Cecilia Road, was treated for minor abrasions Wednesday at Jubilee Hospital after he was struck by a car driven by Fred A. Deheck, 2830 Somass Drive, on Gorge Road. Police said the boy ran out from behind a parked car.

Vote Today In City By-Election

Returning officer M. Frank Hunter reported voting was light in today's city aldermanic by-election. Candidates for year-and-a-half term are Arthur Dowell, H. E. Ker and William H. Williams. Voting will continue until 7 with result expected an hour later. Polling clerk Edgar Hook instructs Miss Kay Burt-Smith, 912 Fort Street. Cecil French was first voter to cast ballot.

Back Scholarship Plan

Scholarships to enable men with practical knowledge of labor problems to study law and economics should be given by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, according to a recommendation adopted by the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night.

The recommendation will be forwarded for the agenda of the 1951 national convention. The union body also decided to ask Victoria council to consider the appointment of a labor representative on the Memorial Arena commission.

Discussion of a recent majority conciliation board recommendation that the I.C.A. Act be amended to allow an employer to negotiate directly with his employees brought disapproving comment from members, although no action was taken.

The recommendation was contained in a conciliation board finding in a dispute between management and employees at Moon-ey's Body Shop.

The Case Of The Woman Versus Strong-Armed Chair!

By PENNY SAVER

Junior went flying home the other day with a wild and weird tale to tell his father. Seems he could hear his mother shouting from somewhere but he was darned if he could find her. Sam, good sound man that he is, decided to investigate his offspring's story.

Armed with stout pioneer courage, he and the small child, started to roam the area in their 160 by 68-foot lot. They checked the three apple trees. No Mabel! The Willow tree... even their small-sized fish pond, but still no signs of Mabel. Then they saw "it." A leg was seen protruding from the depths of their old lawn chair. Either it was Mabel or somebody had left a leg at the tea party Mabel had thrown two days before.

Close inspection revealed the leg belonged to Mabel, and the rest of her was buried in canvas and wood. With a couple of

Too Much Sun Will Dry Your Skin And Age You

There is no doubt about it! Sunbathing dries the skin and makes you more susceptible to lines. Actually, the women I know who have the most beautiful skins do not go in for this yearly tanning. The other extreme is the individual who is constantly in the sun and has a toughened, aged-looking epidermis because of thickening and constant drying.

This is the day of sports, and considering the great benefits of outdoor life to health and also the style of a good-looking tan, I would not suggest that you stay out of the sun this summer. I do strongly urge that you be moderate about it. Get the tan slowly and protect yourself with one of the lotions or creams which screen out some of the ultra-violet rays when you are going to be in the sun for long periods.

Realize $106 For Guides And Brownies

Gay stalls dotted the lawn, and fluttering flags decorated "Vision," the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hobbs, Hobbs Road, yesterday afternoon, for Third Central District Girl Guides and local association garden party when $106 was realized to be added to their funds.

Mrs. C. M. Martin was general convenor and Mesdames D. Keirs and E. G. Harvey were in charge of tea arrangements.

Mrs. Alan Morkill, international guider, officially opened the affair. Conveners of stalls were Mrs. H. J. Heal, white elephant; Mrs. D. Jones, flowers; Mrs. N. Doak, candy; Mesdames E. J. Harwood and C. L. Whitty, home cooking; Mrs. E. J. Fatt, gate receipts; Miss H. Leighton, contest; Mrs. J. Hunter, fish pond, and Mrs. F. Banks, tea tickets.

Guides and brownies assisted in serving tea and entertainment was provided by the Cadboro Bay brownie pack.

Emily Sartain Writes Impressions Of Return To England, Panama Canal

London, Eng.

Now, after I have had some weeks here you will wonder what my impressions are.

Many places, of course, are to me so familiar that they look unchanged. I have not yet seen the City of London, but have many times visited the West End. Here there are numerous gaps—where once were beautiful shops or buildings. Now, of course, the debris of bomb damage has been cleared and the spaces are either car parks or hidden by large hoardings. Or, in many instances, the ruins have been converted into beautiful little gardens, carefully tended.

SHOWS THIS MONTH

Regarding my own work I have not a great deal to tell you yet, except that I am just as busy as I can be arranging various exhibitions. In June, I am giving one exhibition of my Canadian wild flowers at Saltdean in Sussex, a lovely spot on the south coast and near the rolling south downs. That is where I had my studio before I left for Canada.

The coastline is very similar to that of Dallas Road in Victoria, where the broom and the wild roses bloom. Gorse and wild roses grow on the downs, and when I was there recently one could hardly step without treading on blue violets. I also picked some wild cowslips, one of my favorite English wild flowers, and I have since painted them.

After my show there in June I shall be even more busy making preparation for my exhibition which is taking place at the Cooling Galleries in Bond Street in July. When that is over I hope to write you again and give you more news of my doings.

ABOARD SHIP.

In spite of sailing from Victoria in the teeth of a fierce gale, and in spite of exploring an anti-cyclone whilst in the Atlantic, I thoroughly enjoyed my voyage across on the R.M.S. Loch Avon.

The weather was wonderful in the tropics, not unbearably hot, and we had a perfect day for our sail through the Panama Canal. I awoke that morning when our ship anchored near the entrance to the canal. It was just before 8 a.m. and I saw the sunrise over Panama. I remembered I had watched the full moon rise the previous night as we sailed the calm waters of the Pacific.

Our ship entered the canal at about 7.30 a.m. in glorious sunshine, and it was most interesting going through the locks, watching the electric "mules" on the shore either side, guiding the ship safely through. Quite often the canal seemed so narrow and the ship so close to the land each side, I felt as if I could almost reach out and pick some of the wild flowers I could see growing along the canal banks.

Of course, my eyes would look for flowers, would they not? I must have walked a few miles that day, as I just went from side to side of the ship, to be sure I saw everything. The bright green of the tropical trees and bushes impressed me and I felt sure there must be some interesting and exotic flowers growing there—if only I could have gone ashore to explore!

However, it was a most interesting experience to be on board ship, and to realize we ate breakfast while we were anchored in the Pacific Ocean, had lunch while our ship was in the Panama Canal, and supper as we were emerging into the Caribbean Sea! What a day to remember!

In the evening we docked at Cristobal and had two hours ashore; that was interesting also. Although it was around 10 o'clock at night, all the shops and out-door cafes were open and doing a brisk business. After doing some shopping we drove back to the ship in a funny little old-fashioned "buggy," drawn by a white pony and driven by a darkie. As we returned to the Loch Avon, we saw the luxury liner Ss. Nieuw Amsterdam, just leaving the harbor of Cristobal on her way to the West Indies, and we watched her glide out—a very lovely sight with all her lights blazing in the darkness.

NEAR CYCLONE

Three days later we sailed into Curacao, where the ship took on oil for fuel. Here again we had a few hours ashore, and visited the town of Willemstad, where everything looked clean and bright in the tropical sunshine, and we would have liked at least a week there to be able to see and enjoy everything. After that it was "full steam ahead for home," and before many days were over we had left behind the beautiful blue waters and sunny skies of the tropics, and were instead in the turbulent waters and grey skies of the Atlantic, toasting around in the midst of an anti-cyclone. Finally we reached the waters of the Mersey River and the mists of Liverpool.

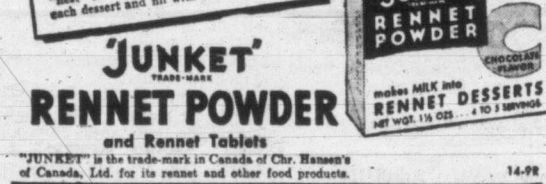

Miss Sartain shows her paintings of Canadian wild flowers to W. A. McAdam, C.M.G., agent-general for British Columbia at British Columbia House, London, England.

And so, after 12 years' absence in Canada, I once more stepped foot in my native England.

Card Party—To raise funds for Ganges Chapter, I.O.D.E., a card party was held recently in Mahon Hall. Mesdames V. C. Best, G. St. Denis and Miss F. Aitkens were in charge of arrangements. Refreshments were served by Mesdames J. Byron and A. Eagles. Mrs. A. J. Eaton was mistress of ceremonies and $55 was realized.

Silver Tea—Plans were made at recent meeting of Jara Smith Evening Auxiliary of Victoria West United Church held at home of Mrs. A. W. Wright, to hold the annual silver tea in church hall, Raynor Street, Saturday from 3 to 5. Miss Dorothy Smith presided and led devotional period.

Cheese spreads are being packaged in two-ounce tin tubes these days. You can select your flavor as to sharp, Roquefort with port wine and Edam with Sauterne wine. Sounds like a good idea for making hors d'oeuvres in a hurry.

Next meeting will be held at home of Mrs. G. Grey, Belton Avenue.

On Cigarettes—Mrs. W. P. Wallace presided at a meeting of Rockland Park W.C.T.U., and led a discussion on the harmful habit of cigarette smoking. Facts revealed proving their bad effect on both brain and lungs. Mrs. J. Carruthers and Mrs. F. S. Dearborn took devotionals and Mrs. Wallace gave an account of a recent visit to California. It was decided to hold a picnic on July 9 in Beacon Hill Park, with Mesdames R. B. Elliott, I. Pinkerton and V. Hepburn as conveners. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Barbara Brent's BUYS AND WHYS

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, June 7th—Does your husband wear a worried look these days? Ten to one, it's about money. As taxes and prices go up, hubby's spirit head in the other direction. A good way to reduce that gay, confident look to his face is to show him how, together, you can beat the cost of living. The way of course, is by PERSONAL PLANNING. This BANK OF MONTREAL family-financing system puts your dollars to work as they have never worked before. Chances are, you will be able to meet your bills and save money into the bargain. Then watch hubby's face light up! Be a smart wife... get your copy of "PERSONAL PLANNING" at a neighborhood branch of the B of M today. You'll enjoy mastering your money problems together.

A Cool Approach To Summer... here's a wonderful, new treat!... BIRDS EYE Concentrated Lemonade! Quick? My yes... just add water and ice—takes 30 seconds to fix 6 glasses... imagine! Good? Ah, just wait till you taste its sunny-tart tang! One can makes one quart... and what you don't drink will keep for days. My refrigerator is never without a supply... specially with Summer callers dropping in, it's nice to have a cool drink ready. Birds Eye Lemonade is good because it's the juice of sun-ripened lemons, concentrated, sweetened and quick-frozen. Try it... if you don't agree it's the best lemonade you ever tasted... the Birds Eye people will give you your money back.

You'll Find that you'll be getting quite conceited over your family's extravagant praise when you serve Jell-O for dessert. And when you know how simple and quick Jell-O desserts and salads are to make, perhaps you'll feel a bit guilty taking all the credit. It's such fun to experiment with the fruit-fresh flavors... to make delicious Jell-O desserts that add sparkle and color to meals. I plan on serving some "locked-in" JELL-O JELLY POWDER flavors often. I've found a treasure-house of ideas in the Jell-O booklet "Dessert Magic." Why not send for a free copy? Mail your request for "Dessert Magic" with your name and address to General Foods, Limited, Dept. A, Cobourg, Ontario.

Menu Magic for the meal that begins your day... QUAKER PUFFED WHEAT and QUAKER RICE are just that good! They're both family favorites around our house... and I'm sure they'll be "tops" with your family, too. There's something so wide-awake about their crisp, light-as-a-feather fluffiness. Serve them with fresh fruit on top to celebrate a fine June morning. Or serve them just as they come from the box... sprinkled with brown or white sugar and smothered in milk. So easy—so nourishing—so satisfying at breakfast-time! Treat your family tomorrow to Quaker Puffed Rice and Quaker Puffed Wheat. They're a "Menu Must" for happy breakfasting!

Her Man Could Cook—but so could Joan Brown of Ottawa—so they spent many happy hours in the kitchen with their favourite recipes. And Ft. L. Hank Keane was just as dazzled by Joan's lovely complexion as by her cooking skill. It wasn't long before he asked Joan to be his "beauty recipe." Yes, Joan knows a "beauty recipe," too!... daily facials with WOODBURY FACIAL SOAP—the soap with the beauty cream ingredient. The skin scientists who make Woodbury put a fabulous face-cream ingredient into every cake. It's a precious skin softener used in the very finest of face creams. So take a tip from a Woodbury-beautiful bride! Start Woodbury Facials today! (Woodbury is wonderful for beauty baths, too!)

I've Cut My Way Down On Food Costs and thoroughly enjoyed doing it... with my favourite BLUE BONNET MARGARINE! It's so handy Yellow Quik bag! Blue Bonnet's delicate, country-sweet flavour—its marvelous freshness. And now this "touch of genius"... the Yellow Quik bag! Now it's so easy to colour Blue Bonnet... no messy dishes... no extra work... just press the colour button on the Yellow Quik bag and knead the bag gently. In just two minutes your Blue Bonnet is yellow—ready to use. What's more—Blue Bonnet always has the same delicious flavour—and its Vitamin A content is high every month of the year. You certainly get a lot for your money when you buy Blue Bonnet!

Keep Cool at what's usually a hot Summer job!... mothproof your winter clothes the sure 'n' easy way with LARVEX! Simply spray your woollens—suits—coats—dresses, and rugs with fool-proof, moth-proof Larvex. Mr. Moth will starve to death rather than eat anything that's been Larvex-treated. Just think!—there's no need to wrap and store away—no spraying actually moth-proofs the cloth for a whole year. And when you wear the "Larvex-ed" garment there's absolutely no tell-tale odour! Larvex is inexpensive, too! Costs no more to "Larvex" a suit than to get it dry-cleaned!

Looks Like A Party... but it isn't extravagant—that's why I serve this deliciously cool dessert so often. Everybody loves a fresh lemon flavour—and there's nothing to compare with the full, juicy tang of SUNKIST CALIFORNIA LEMONS. The success of this recipe is due to Sunkist Lemons—it makes 1 quart for 6-8. Try it... you'll love it!

LEMON FROZEN CREAM

3 eggs beaten until lemon-coloured.

1/2 c. sugar.

Add sugar gradually to egg until mixture becomes a thick custard-like consistency. Combine with:

1/2 c. light cream

2 c. top milk (or 1 c. milk and 1 c. coffee cream)

1/4 c. Sunkist lemon juice

1 tsp. grated Sunkist lemon peel.

Freeze in refrigerator tray at lowest temperature until stiff. When frozen, remove to a bowl and whip until light and creamy. Return quickly to freezing tray. Finish freezing. This one stirring is all that is needed. Hold at middle control for serving.

In Junior League Fashion Show

Summer fashion show and one of the first garden parties of the season will be held Saturday from 3 to 5.30 at the home of Mrs. Harold Husband, 3150 Rutland Road, under auspices of Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League. Mrs. Howard Damaske, right, is convener and will commentate on clothes and shoes to be shown. Modeling summer fashions will be Audrey Monk, left, and Dawn Van Norman, centre. On the committee are Ellen Keay, Bette Keatley, Peggy Wadsworth and Patricia Garrard. Other models are Iris Birchall, Joan Hodge, Joyce Davis, Ellen Keay, Evelyn Forrest, Frances Wilson and Joan Edgar.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Miss Hesson In Victoria

Miss Hilda Hesson, national director, Women's Progressive Conservative Association, arrived in Victoria this morning for a two-day visit. She is staying at the Empress Hotel.

Tomorrow afternoon Mrs. Herbert Ansbach will entertain at the tea hour at "Hove Villa," her Newport Avenue home, in honor of Miss Hesson.

Friday evening executive members and past presidents of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club will hold a small dinner party at Oak Bay Beach Hotel for Miss Hesson who is a past national president of the federation of business and professional women's clubs.

This afternoon Miss Hesson was honor guest and speaker at a meeting of the Victoria Branch, Women's Progressive Conservative Association and tonight will speak at the newly formed Saanich Women's Branch, at the home of Mrs. F. Pimm, 3022 Wascana Street.

For Miss Peggy Howell

A china shower party to honor Miss Peggy Howell, who arrived recently from Portland for her marriage, Saturday afternoon, to Mr. David Richard Evans, was given by Mrs. J. L. M. Beere, at her Roslyn Road home. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Beere were Mrs. Harold Turner and Mrs. Paul Beere. On arrival, the June bride-elect was presented with a corsage bouquet of white roses. Her mother, Mrs. R. P. Howell received red roses en corsage.

Guests were Mesdames A. M. Beere, R. Wilson, J. O. Townsend, C. Howell, D. Howell, W. Lund, D. Johnston, G. Fields, J. Howell, R. Fields, Misses June Thompson and Miss Edith Howell.

Prior to her departure from Portland Miss Howell was feted at a linen and miscellaneous shower.

A New York Bride-Elect

Miss Joan Poirier, whose marriage to Mr. David Hawthorne will take place Saturday evening, has arrived from Schenectady, N.Y., to be guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hawthorne, Stewart Avenue.

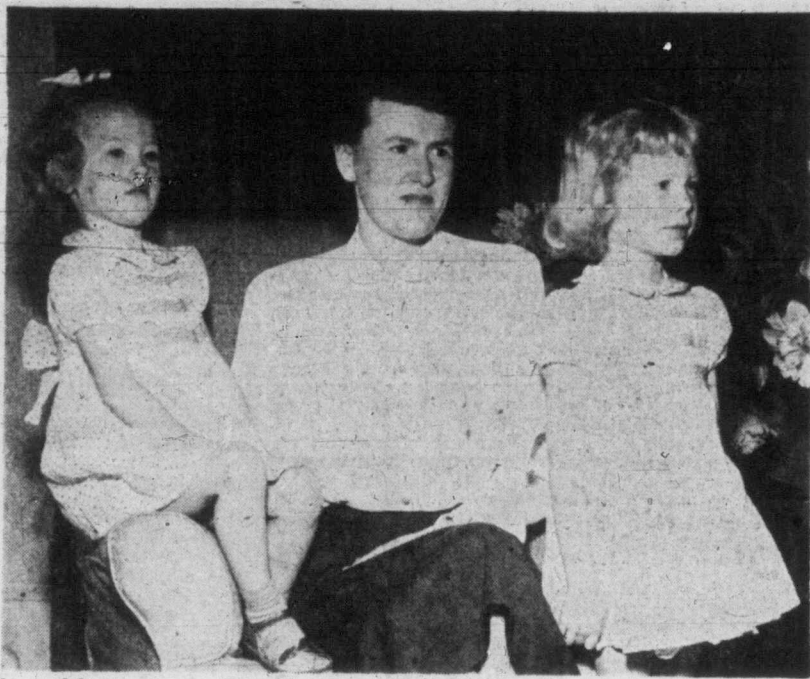

Last evening Miss Poirier was honored when Mrs. Don Hawthorne entertained in her honor at a miscellaneous shower.

The honor guest was presented with many useful gifts concealed in a decorated umbrella with a corsage bouquet of pink and white roses. Mrs. C. E. Hawthorne, mother of the groom-elect, received a corsage bouquet of pink carnations. Guests were Mesdames F. Diment, J. Diment, S. Hayward, V. Diment, H. Paulin, A. McKay, H. Talbot, Misses Coral Winters, Majorie McKay and Noreen Talbot.

Mrs. V. J. Simpson, the former Amy Boyce, is visiting friends in the city, having come from her home in Calgary for the diamond jubilee celebration at Royal Jubilee Hospital Training School, last week.

Mrs. D. M. Walls, Vancouver, who was the guest of Mrs. B. Walls, Lee Avenue, during the diamond jubilee celebration at Royal Jubilee Hospital last week, is now visiting her son, Mr. Don Forrest and his family on Daffodil Avenue.

A gift decorated wheelbarrow, laden with gifts, was presented to June bride-elect, Miss Barbara Rumsby, by little Lynne Saunders, at a shower given by Mrs. G. Rumsby and Mrs. H. Rumsby at the Maddock Avenue home of the latter. On arrival the honor guest, her mother, Mrs. A. Rumsby and Mrs. E. Folden, mother of the groom-elect, received corsage bouquets of roses. Refreshments were served from a lace-covered table set with a centrepiece of pink

West Vancouver Family Recent Visitors

Mrs. John Mara with her two elder daughters, Kathleen and small Pauline, who were guests of Mrs. F. D. Mara, Pemberton Road, have now left for their home in West Vancouver. Mrs. Mara came to Victoria last week to attend the diamond jubilee of Royal Jubilee Hospital training school of which she is a graduate. Mr. John Mara joined his family here last week-end.

Pat Henson Married To Ray Chester

Vestry of First United Church was scene of the wedding of Patricia Winifred Henson to Ray Hugh Chester. Rev. M. A. J. Waters heard the marriage vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Henson, 2222 Shakespeare Street, and the groom is the son of Mrs. E. Bigelow, Los Vegas, Nev., and J. H. Chester, Vancouver.

Mr. Henson gave his daughter in marriage.

The new Mrs. Chester wore a smart two-piece navy blue crepe suit styled with a tiered peplum. She complemented her ensemble with a white hat and orchid accessories. Her bouquet was of Rapture roses.

Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. H. D. Tobby, who wore a pink crepe dress with black accessories and carried a bouquet of gardenia and sweet peas.

Charles Arnold was best man. Tall baskets of white stocks and pink carnations decorated the living room at the home of the bride's parents for the wedding reception. A three-tier cake centred the lace-covered table.

Ernest Keatley proposed toast to bride.

Upon leaving for her honeymoon up-island the bride donned a topcoat of grey covert cloth over her wedding ensemble and wore a corsage bouquet to match her bridal bouquet of Rapture roses.

Arrangements were completed for a summer fashion show and garden party on Saturday at the home of Mrs. Harold Husband, 3150 Rutland Road, from 3 to 5.30. Mrs. Howard Damaske is convener, assisted by Mrs. Ellen Keay and Peggy Wadsworth. A home cooking stall will be an added attraction.

The bride chose a grey dress-maker suit, contrasting wine-toned accessories, and corsage bouquet of yellow roses and white swansonia for the double ring ceremony. H. Chris Kreiger gave her in marriage.

Mrs. W. R. Colbert, who attended her sister as matron of honor, also wore a tailleur of grey with white and navy accessories, and pink and white carnations en corsage.

Clifford Boyd was best man for his brother.

Suncrest Drive, the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. H. Kreiger, was scene of the wedding reception where the bride's table was set with three-tier cake, vases of gladioli and white marguerites. Paul Freer, Vancouver, proposed the toast.

Woman M.L.A. Guest Speaker

Annual meeting of Victoria Women's Canadian Club will be held next Tuesday afternoon in the ballroom at Empress Hotel, commencing at 2.45.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. T. J. Rolston, M.L.A., and her subject, "Up From Down Under," a talk on her visit to New Zealand and Australia.

Mrs. Rolston, born in Vancouver, has been a member of the British Columbia legislature for 10 years. She was a member of the Vancouver parks board for eight years and president of Vancouver Women's Canadian Club for four years.

In Australia she met all the women federal members there, including Senators Annabelle Rankin, Agnes Robertson, Dorothy Tanguay and Ivy Edgewood, and was entertained by leading Australian and New Zealand dignitaries.

At a meeting of Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League held recently, Logan Mayhew, president, Solarium board of directors, was guest speaker. He gave a talk on Solarium activities and plans for future improvement.

Plans were discussed for the annual meeting of the league at Colwood Golf Club, June 20. Willard Ireland, provincial librarian, will be guest speaker, and other guests will include members of the board of directors.

Arrangements were completed for a summer fashion show and garden party on Saturday at the home of Mrs. Harold Husband, 3150 Rutland Road, from 3 to 5.30. Mrs. Howard Damaske is convener, assisted by Mrs. Ellen Keay and Peggy Wadsworth. A home cooking stall will be an added attraction.

Lack Of Distribution Facilities Ups Price Of Meat, Consumers Told

Freight rates on meat from Vancouver amount to 50 cents a 100 for less than carload lots. Because of the smaller market area, Victoria usually gets smaller shipments. This immediately adds 1/2 cent a pound to the meat wholesale cost. Shrinkage and drying out results in loss of weight and there is usually a two-cent retail spread on the meats.

Miss Gloria Kendall, research assistant, Bureau of Economics and Statistics, gave this information when she addressed members of Victoria Branch, Canadian Association of Consumers, last evening in the council room at the City Hall.

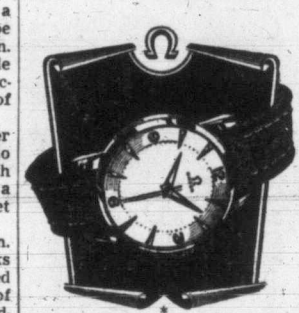

Continuing on the subject of meat and fish prices, Miss Kendall said that bigger markets and better distribution facilities for goods in Vancouver, as compared to this city, assisted in lowering prices. Victoria also suffers a lack of storage areas in comparison with the larger areas in the mainland city.

In conclusion, the speaker stated that "while in a large city with large market areas, food costs will be cheaper, these centres are often more expensive places to live with more of the so-called amenities of life, including entertainment, or transportation costs."

Second speaker, Dr. Wallace Gunn, livestock commissioner and chief veterinary inspector of Department of Agriculture, stressed that food production was important to every person in the country.

"Canada should produce 15,000,000 head of cattle but we only have 9,000,000," he said.

FOR THE GRADUATE

OMEGA
Century 30mm

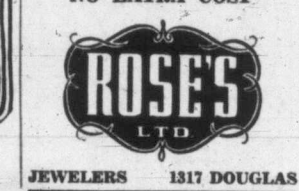

Here beyond any doubt, is the greatest watch value in the world today. This is no ordinary watch for nearly one million of this particular model are already being worn.

"With more meat being consumed by working people, and with United States embargo lifted, the people of the United States are hungry for meat. They want more but we cannot give them more."

Dr. Gunn also pointed out that "too many people are forcing prices up on cheaper cuts of meat because they won't buy anything else. In comparison, the good quality meats have gone up less."

Following Dr. Gunn's address, R. Williams, local meat retailer, and D. J. Miller, fish retailer, were called on for a discussion period with members of the audience.

Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Cashmore, with their children, Sara, Bob and Lynn, have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Paterson, Craigdarroch Road, for the past few days. They motored from Helena, Mont., and today are crossing to Vancouver, where Dr. Cashmore will attend the Shrine convention.

Mrs. H. L. Smith, branch president, thanked the speakers and Mrs. O. Lionel, second vice-president, gave closing remarks. Mrs. Smith also announced that the meeting was the last until the fall.

VICTORIAN SPRING

Cecil Maiden

CIV
Madame Benedine slowly nodded—with relief as well as with gratitude. Madame had once been in England. She recognized in Letty a woman of breeding. There was almost a deference in her voice as she spoke. "Je vous remercie, M<sup>lle</sup> Letty."

"My name's Merridew—Letty Merridew."
"Miss Merridew, I'm a busy woman. This will be much help for it will leave me free to look after the others. They require looking after, too. But I will pay a little for Miss Hackett until she can join us again. She is a good dancer, when she is well."

Amy Hackett herself was sitting up now, and she had recognized Letty again. The puzzled fear was back in her eyes, too. But whatever the cause of it, she struggled to sit more erectly, then allowed herself to be lifted into a chair.

"Anything I can do, Miss?" Mr. Carson asked.

Amy gave him a wan smile and whispered "No, thank you, sir."

"Well, my dear, if you ever need anything . . . perhaps a glass of port, to keep your spirits up, just send along to Ned Carson for it—on the house."

"Thank you, sir."

"And I'll tell you this, Miss. You couldn't be going to a better kinder couple of people in Barkerville!"

"Now," said Letty, supporting the girl and helping to lift her to her feet, "Let's try to get you home, shall we?"

"Thank you, Miss Merridew."

Letty gave the girl a look of quick complexity. She could hardly have heard the name given to Madame Benedine. How, then . . . ?

Amy could not only stand again, now, but could even walk again. Madame was so satisfied with this that she remembered her reason for being in the "Pioneer" and became, again, something between a dancing teacher and a business woman.

"Alors," she called out to the others. "Back to your places, and let us waste no more time. I will go with the Mademoiselle to take Amy to this home. You will go on practicing the steps you had started. Mais vite!"

The sweet Mr. Carson . . . (Madame threw him a look which in a younger woman would have been considered provocative) "will observe, and he will say to me on my return how high you were kicking. N'est ce pas, Mr. Carson?"

Mr. Carson coughed. "You betcher!" he agreed quickly, with a mixture of anticipatory gusto and masculine ineptitude.

"Oolala!" gushed Madame Benedine, contriving to make the three syllables sound as if they were one. And having favored him with another of her glances, she began to move with Letty and the rapidly recovering Amy Hackett towards the door.

Amy had been given a cup of hot broth and put early to bed. Amelia had seen to that. "After practicing with those scallywags till after midnight every night it'll be a real mercy to get between sheets in daylight for a change."

The expected birth could not be far away. Perhaps only a week or two. Letty considered it unwise, to say the least, for Amy to have continued so long in her dancing with the other girls. But the explanation for this delay was not long in coming.

Amy sat up in her plain, high bed, against the wall of polished logs, and watched Letty walk across to the small window to draw the blind . . . then watched her come back to the table at her bedside to see if the lamp required attention.

"Miss Merridew?"

"Yes, dear?"

"Would you . . . would you please sit down for a minute and talk to me?"

"Of course I will!" Letty gave the girl in bed an encouraging smile, and seated herself in the room's only other chair, a painted rocking chair with padded horsehair back and seat. She started gently rocking to and fro.

Amy's eyes had taken on a curious lustre. The likeness to a child repeated itself—was more pronounced than ever in this shapeless winceyette nightgown.

"Miss Merridew . . . you don't remember seeing me anywhere before, do you?"

"Well . . . I felt there was a resemblance to someone I'd met—but I couldn't be sure."

Amy lifted a timid hand to push back from her eyes a wisp of the pale hair. Then she said—hurriedly, as if anxious to finish the words—"I was on the stage at the Colonial Theatre that night!"

STRAIN ON SUPPLY RESOURCES

Inflationary Pressure Hits B.C.

A continuing high demand for goods and services coupled with new defense commitments is exerting strong inflationary pressures on the Canadian economy, the Bureau of Economics and Statistics reports.

At the same time, officials said, it is not yet apparent what effect the new budget will have towards reducing these pressures through controlling non-essential expenditures.

Certain tendencies in B.C., common to other provinces, emphasized the strength of the current demand—retail sales during February climbed 19 per cent above last year's level while sales of consumer durables were even further ahead of sales, and sales of motor vehicle dealers were 60 per cent above last year's February activity.

HEAVY INVESTMENTS
Another significant factor adding to the strain on the supply of resources at the present time was the heavy investment program under way by businesses, institutions and governmental bodies, it was stated.

In this province, investment plans at the end of 1950 called for expenditures of over $400,000,000 during the current year.

While the investment programs might not be realized fully, there were other instances where even greater expenditures were now planned for defense production.

Value of construction contracts showed a big gain over last year, totalling $90,401,800 in the first four months of the year. Building permits totalled $31,180,000 for the same period compared to $18,820,000 for the corresponding period of last year.

The high current level of employment indicated the possibi-ties of labor shortages in certain industries as activity increases during the summer months, the bureau said. Shortages were expected in agriculture, fishing, mining, logging and the pulp and paper industries.

Recent upward revision in wages had been common to many industries. Industrial salaries and wages in B.C. averaged $51.17 per week on March 1 compared to $46.69 a year earlier. In Vancouver the average industrial wage at the beginning of March was $48.47, while in Victoria it was $48.08.

ITALIAN ARRESTED SELLING KNIGHTHOODS IN FAKE 'ORDER'

NAPLES (AP)—The world is short one honorary "order" today—the fictitious Order of St. Andrew of Caffa.

Police arrested Luca Benincasa Wednesday and charged him with selling "knighthoods" in the order, to which they said he established and over which he proclaimed himself Grand Master.

The knighthoods went for from $5 to $50, officers said. It is against Italian law to sell titles.

When arrested, Grand Master Benincasa was at his desk working on two diplomas—for Argentine President Juan Peron and his evita.

It's Taps For Eleanor Powell, Dancing On Comeback Trail

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Eleanor Powell is limbering up her legs for another personal appearance tour—the answer to the rumor that Mrs. Glenn Ford is retiring as a dancer.

Cecil B. DeMille is finally talking about his retirement plans. There will be one more DeMille epic after he completes "The Greatest Show on Earth," then the veteran movie pioneer will say farewell to the industry.

After 20 years in Hollywood, Andy Devine is broadcasting the word that his role of Guy Madison's sidekick, Jingles, in the Wild Bill Hickok films-for-TV is the greatest thing that's ever happened to him.

"Look," he told me, "when I drive through Victorville (a small town 100 miles from Hollywood) and little Mexican boys yell at me, 'Hi, Jingles,' I know I'm in."

The TV boom that's hurt movie box office has Andy quoting C.

FESTIVAL GROWTH

Financial Balance At $2,000 Mark

Growth and financial success of Greater Victoria Musical Festival was revealed at annual meeting Wednesday night.

Financial statement read by A. J. Bergeron, treasurer, disclosed a cash balance of approximately $2,000.

Over $300 was given in burials in the 1951 festival.

Following officers were elected by acclamation: President, J. F. K. English; first vice-president, Denis Brown; second vice-president, Mrs. Wm. Ellis; recording secretary, Mrs. Mary Hunter; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary Campbell; treasurer, A. J. Bergeron; chairman of syllabus committee, Mrs. Roberto Wood; publicity, Dr. Henrietta Anderson; programs, Harry J. Bigsby; halls and staff, P. C. Routley. Dr. Anderson, 1951 recording secretary, revealed there were 721 entries this year, compared with 608 in 1950. There was also a better representation from out of town and 36 sessions as against 21 last year.

Some idea of the scope of the festival can be gained from the statement that 1,436 school children were transported to and from the sessions by special B.C. Electric buses.

Mexican President's Son Youngest Movie Producer

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Honors for the youngest film producer on this continent probably go to Miguel Aleman Jr., son of the President of Mexico.

Aleman, 19, was here for three days this week to talk to Hollywood film moguls about his new production company which is being set up to make films in Mexico.

"I am not here to finalize anything," he told me. (This was despite reports that he had signed up Ann Sheridan and Joseph Cotten for his first picture.)

"The purpose of my visit is to talk to certain people and find out what kind of deals we will be able to make."

Miguel said this is his first venture in film making. "But I have been a movie fan all my life," he added. "I know everybody in the film colony in Mexico and they often come to me with their troubles."

I have also visited Hollywood four or five times, so I am familiar with all the lots here. Armed with Mexican capital, he has set up a production company designed to make films at a low cost. At least one of them will be from a script written by himself.

Letters to the Eddytor

Repeat, Please!

Sir,—This morning I swallowed the toaster. Is this a record?—Yours, etc., UNCOMFORTABLE.

An Explanation

Dear Sir,—The "Over 90" Club would like to explain thru your columns exactly what happened to cause the hitch at our recent prize-giving. It all happened like this. When our chairman started to present the prizes (one of which was donated by the kind HUMBUR BROTHERS), the silver cup for the first prize was found to be missing. Our chairman, when told of the reason for the delay, said that there were dozens of cups on the sideboard at his house. He therefore suggested that someone be sent around to collect one, & it could be exchanged when the right cup was found. This was done, & up came Mrs. Simpkins for the first prize in the women's singles. She made a little curtsey, & was about to sit down when she unfortunately glanced at the cup & so fell down in a faint. We would therefore like to explain thru your valued paper why she fainted. The inscription on the cup was found to read, "First Prize for the Best Wire-haired B... in the Show."—Yours, etc., THE COMMITTEE.

Beep... Beep

Sir,—Yesterday I bot a very nice rocking chair from the HUMBER Boys, from their big warehouse, & although they said they would deliver it, I wanted to surprise Dad, so I had them put it on the bus. Being rather forgetful, I left it behind me when I got off the bus at my stop. Imagine my surprise when half an hour after I got home, I heard the bus driver blowing his horn outside my door. This dear man had ### found my chair (it's a lovely chair, with rubber foam stuff in the cushions), & had brot his vehicle some distance off his route & up to my house to deliver it. Naturally I invited him in to tea, but thru your columns I would like to thank him again for his generous deed. —Gratefully, (Miss) A. B. HORNBLLOWER.

Wants To Enter The Ring

Dear Sir,—I have been thinking of entering my name as a contestant to be an Alderman. I wonder, therefore, if you would care to print this letter, telling your readers what I stand for. My policy, like a pair of horns, has two points, with some male cow in between. My first point is what I stand for, & my second point is what I sit down for. I stand for an 8-day week & a 25-hour day, and I simply won't stand for one second longer that No Point Ellise Bridge. I stand for private enterprise, corporal punishment & general confusion. I hope you have space for my platform. I also stand for "God Save The King."—Hopefully, I. M. BOVINE.

Forever Blowing Bubbles

Dear Sir,—Encouraged to start my new industry in Victoria, by your Chamber of Commerce, I have chosen a very nice site on the Industrial Reserve & intend manufacturing spirit levels. I am in immediate need of bubbles from goldfish bowls, so would it be O.K. with you to ask your readers to send me some, otherwise I cannot get established & pay my taxes.—Yours on the level, O. N. PLUMB.

P.S.—I will also pay current prices for buckets of steam.
